GR Spring Festival Slated Tonight

Tonight at 8:00 p.m. in the Green River library, the Spring Festival of Arts will be presented.

Under the direction of Mr. Ron Smith, music instructor, the Green River Singers will begin the program with "Exultate Deo" by Alessandro Scarlatti. This is one of this Baroque composer's finest works for unaccompanied chorus.

Although most music of the Baroque period was performed in combinations of voices and instruments, the Church in Rome required strict polyphonic style in a purely vocal texture, a style in which the melodic idea is passed from voice to voice.

Following "Elegy" with violinist Mr. Paul Lewan, Larry Pepper will perform a vocal solo, "Still as the Night" by Boehm.

Ensemble Numbers

"Lasciate mi morire" (O Leave me, Love, to Perish) by Montverdi, "Spring is Here," and "Serenade in the Night" will be presented by a vocal ensemble.

The Green River Singers will return with "Go Way from my Window," a folk song from the Appalachian mountains set in folk-blues style with soloists Joi Lee and Larry Pepper; "Rock-a-My Soul," a spiritual arranged by Jester Hairston in a manner emphasizing the first word of the title; and "My Heart is Offered Still to You," a Sixteenth century chanson by Roland Lassus.

Art Exhibition

The program for the evening includes an exhibition of student work executed in various styles and examples of work in charcoal, gouache, transparent watercolor, stitchery, tie-dye, oil, and acrylic will be included.

Mr. Rex Waldron is the Fine Arts Director and Elaine Holst is the piano accompanist for the evening.

state that are involved.

Chung Has Car Bash

Ever wanted to take a sledge hammer to your car?

Well, it may not be your car you're swinging at, but from noon to 3 p.m. today Chung is offering students the chance to bash up two cars in the "patio" of the Trades and Industry Center, just outside the Lower Lounge.

Swings with the hammer will be a dime apiece or three for a quarter in the fund-raising project.

This is an opportunity for all students to express their feelings about that last English exam, favorite professor, the guy who ignores you, last speeding ticket, etc.

Don't worry about the cars to be bashed. Yours is not included. Members of the community have donated the cars that are to be used.

Many To Honor Memory of War Dead

Editorial

May 30 is a day known and remembered by all, or is it? Certainly, for the students of Green River, this day is of special significance. But is the significance apparent only because of the fact that this means an extra day away from the confines of the classroom? To many, it is just another holiday from college or work.

Does anyone ever stop to think about those who fought for this country, those who gave their lives so that we students of today may have the freedom that we so love. Thousands upon thousands of men and women have been called on to give their lives on the field of battle so that our country might live and prosper under the government of our choice.

In each war, these dedicated men and women have never failed to respond to the call of their country in its times of distress. And thank God they haven't.

The trouble today is that many Americans take their freedoms for granted. They do not take the time to remember how and why we are able to keep our freedoms. The Memorial Day vacation is a time to honor these dead who have not died in vain, but have given their lives for their country so that today we might live.

Our Democracy is a result of the battles that have been fought and won by those dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Right now there are members of our own household who have followed our flag across the sea to the battlefields of Viet Nam, who are gallantly fighting to defend the rights in which they so strongly believe.

Let's take this memorial day, not only as a vacation from the classroom, but as an opportunity to honor the persons who have died in wars for their country. Let's raise "Old Glory" high in the sky, and take a few minutes to give thanks to those who, through past wars, have made freedom possible.

Put Off Today What's Due Tomorrow?

One of the greatest faults of almost any student is procrastinating. It is so easy to "put it off until later," but then it is so hard to get it done on time.

Procrastinating is the biggest temptation a person has, especially a student. It is probably more common today than 20 or 30 years ago. In those days there was no TV program you just had to see. Nor did the average teenager have free use of the family car or have a car of his own.

Just stop to think what it would be like to have something done before it was due. Everything you did, you could do with a clear conscience. The assignment would not be hanging over you like a dark cloud waiting to burst any moment.

Any free time you might have you could do with as you pleased. You could really enjoy the TV program or get completely involved in some outside reading without having to forget the prospect because of the undone work.

You wouldn't have to turn down that date to stay home to write that report which had been put off for two weeks.

Let's try doing something early, like studying for the final exams which are due in two weeks. See how much better it makes you feel when you go in to face that final.

Moment of Certainty Never To Be Reality

When I was a small child I used to believe that somewhere out ahead lay a certain moment when one would become grown up and know all the answers. At that point, life would be easy; no more doubts, no more uncertainties; in any situation one would know exactly what to do.

Since then many years have passed, and one thing I have learned is that the moment of absolute certainty never comes. I have found that each of us is different and that no one can ever be right, or know all the answers, all the time.

When an adult is faced with a decision, it is impossible for him to fill in every uncertainty. He cannot be sure he has every fact, so every decision is actually a "guess."

This guess work is where the word "education" comes in, education goes far beyond facts and classrooms. Education also means experience, faith, courage, and understanding, and most of all, the ability to think and act. These are the qualities which make living wisdom out of dry knowledge and make our "guesses" turn out right.

Make your summer as important as this past year in college has been. Look well to every aspect of your education, for it is your life and your future.

GR Students to Pause For Memorial Day

Green River students will be given a break in their schedule as the nation pauses to honor the thousands of men who gave their lives defending their country in past wars.

Tuesday, May 30, there will be no classes held at Green River due to the Memorial Day vacation scheduled.

As the students use this day as a vacation from the labors of education, thousands of people will visit the cemeteries across the nation to pay tribute to these men who laid down their lives on the fields of battle to defend their country's honor and flag. Many people will raise a flag in the customary tradition.

Others will use the day to catch up on lost sleep. Some will go to the ocean, go swimming, or skiing, or take the opportunity for being home with their families.

Green River students will be among these who celebrate Memorial Day, and classes will run on schedule otherwise on Monday and Wednesday.

"The Vanishing American" Tribute to Father's Day

By Jim Smith

There have been many Fathers of America during our brief historical past.

For example, there was George Washington "the father of our country," Theodore Roosevelt "the father of Soldiers of Democracy," John D. Rockefeller, Jr. "the father of civic leaders," Dr. Melvin Lindbloom "father of GRCC" and Dr. John McLoughlin and Ezra Meeker "two of the fathers of Washington State."

These men have all been fathers of something to be proud of, but how about that other father — you know — Dad.

The scientists of today are attempting to make an extinct animal, like the buffalo or whooping crane, out of him. They have created terms like Enovid and Ortho-Novum along with other medical research in an attempt to eliminate his kind.

So, this father's day — stop — look at him, and remember how lucky you are. You have one of those Vanishing Americans around and — I say old bean, wish the blighter a cracking good Paters Day.

Man's Best Friend Presented

(ACP) — We can't help but find a bit of humor in the fact that man's best friend is a so-called dumb animal, say the editors of the Daily Tar Heel, University of North Carolina. Dogs have been a favorite subject of writers down through the ages, and we're no different.

Is the following list of doggie benefits an indication that your dog is dumb?

- He sleeps when he wants to — usually all day.
- He never goes to work; play is his passion.
- He's called in when it's time to eat. He never has to eat spinach, leftover beans or cottage cheese.
- He never has a nervous breakdown, an ulcer, or hernia.
- He doesn't have to dress for any occasion, pay taxes, or stand in line to get a license plate.
- He has yet to go to school or attend choir practice.
- He could care less if being skinny or overweight is unsightly and cholesterol is something he's never heard of.
- And what's more, his sexual drives are uninhibited and are not subject to legal control.

So ask yourself, when's the last time you slept all day, felt like a million, frolicked around in the nude, enjoyed a home and family without ever getting an education or going to work, didn't care about your appearance.

Now just how dumb does that sound?

No Picnic to Get Newspaper Out

"If we print jokes, people say we're silly. If we don't, we are too serious. If we don't print contributions, we don't appreciate genius; if we print them, our paper is amateurish.

If we make a change in the other person's write-up, we're too critical. If we don't, we're asleep. If we clip things from other papers, we're too lazy to write them up ourselves. If we don't, we are too stuck on our own staff.

Now, like as not, some guy will say that we swiped this from some other paper; well, we did!!!

Governor Evans Names Board

Five Men To Serve

Gov. Dan Evans has selected five men from the Green River Valley area to the board of trustees for Community College district 10 of which Green River College serves.

The significance of this move lies in the fact that now the Community Colleges will be separated from the kindergarten through 12 grade district, with the new board being directly responsible to the state board.

According to Dr. Lindbloom, GRCC College president, this "will give us a broader representation, by centering the emphasis on the Community College." Dr. Lindbloom feels that it will be a "very definite asset to the school."

Those who were named to the board were: Robert Olson, of Enumclaw; Dr. Richard Eidal, of Auburn; Hugh Mathews, Renton, and Dr. Robert Shaw along with William Kennelly from Kent.

Club Awards $100 Grants

The Management Club of Green River has awarded three scholarships for the 1967-68 school year. Thomas O'Connell, Anita Troxell, and Doug Evenson are the recipients of the $100 grants.

Thomas O'Connell, 19 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. O'Connell, is a senior at Kent-Meridian High School. He plans to become a service station manager following his college education which will begin next year at Green River.

Seventeen year old Anita Troxell, daughter of Mrs. Beverly Schlotterbeck of Auburn, is interested in the retail field of business and will attend Green River following her graduation from Federal Way High School this June.

Doug Evenson, 20 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Evenson, is presently a freshman at GRCC. With his major in the management field, Doug plans to attend E.W.S.C. upon completion of one more year.

He is the past president of the Management Club, and a state delegate to the National DECA Leadership Conference.

Jones Relinquishes Gavel to Sloan

Spring has sprung.

In the woods, new growth replaces the old, new flowers replaces the ones that have withered and gone during the year, a young man's fancy turns to love, and the 1966-67 Associated Student Body officers concede their place to a slate of newcomers.

OFFICERS SEATED

At the Executive Board meeting Tuesday, the newly elected ASB officers for the 1967-68 school year were seated with no apparent objections by the floor.

Following a farewell speech by President Jones, and among good luck and best wishes from those in attendance, Georgene Halte took the place of Jerry Olson as treasurer; and Georgina Nymon was seated in the place of Sandi Craig as secretary of communications.

ASSUMES OFFICE

DeEtte Pravitz assumed the office of secretary replacing Sherry Moon; Gary Gadwa was seated as vice-president taking over the office from Danny Zivanich; and Roger Sloan was handed the gavel of authority from John Jones, who returned to the ranks from the office of president.

The order of business was continued with Roger Sloan presiding.

Spring Quarterly To Be Sent Via Mail

The Knonahi, Spring Quarterly, containing about 48 pages, will be mailed to the students after the quarter has ended.

The speakers of the artist-lecture series will be featured. They are in the order they spoke: Marta Becket, a dance mime; Dr. Robert Meade; Ramona Solberg, who talked on the arts of Southeast Asia; Ed Keating, former editor of Ramparts magazine who talked on Vietnam; and Dr. Robert Scalapinno, who has been an adviser to President Johnson, who talked on the U.S. foreign policy in Southeast Asia.

There will be individual pictures of sophomores, some of them in their caps and gowns, and the nurses in their uniforms.

Newspaper Off Base

By D. Z.

One of Seattle's daily newspapers has been engaged in a running battle with one of the state's largest billboard companies. The paper has accused the company of obstructing views and providing a general mess for the scenery. Since both agencies have asked the Undertow for help, the following solution is being offered.

The Undertow is of the opinion that the newspaper is off base with its unfair criticism of the billboards. The newspaper is guilty of trying to hog all the advertisement for itself.

Obviously the paper does not realize what a service the billboard industry is to this state. Why the billboards save the state taxpayers millions of dollars every year. How? The answer is simple, those billboards hide a lot of land; this land is sometimes covered with litter. If the billboards were removed the state would have to clean these areas and that would cost money.

Reveal Plan

Now that the presence of billboards has been thoroughly justified, the Undertow is about to reveal an earth-shattering plan.

The Undertow is of the opinion that the billboards can hide this littered ground and save lives at the same time. All that is required is that walls be built along all of Washington's major highways. These walls would be twelve feet in height and could be covered with posters and warning signs, not to mention direction signs.

Advantages

Imagine the advantages of this plan. A girl in a bathing suit could be saying, "Slow down and live a little longer." Or a sign might say, "The Washington State Patrol uses Richco gasoline." Directions would be easy to follow because entire maps could be painted on these walls.

An extra added feature would be that these walls would also prevent animals from crossing the streets. This is needed, especially those animals that have white stripes on their backs.

Yes, the Undertow is confident that this will be a step towards bigger and better advertising. The new plan would save money, lives, and time. Those who scoff at this plan belong in the same small group as those who think that Washington's scenery is beautiful enough to pay to keep clean.

Chung Fills Requirements

Chung, a term taken from a Chinese expression meaning "middle" or "center," is the official name of Green River College's newest campus service organization. Designed to "promote student activities and support the co-operation of students, faculty, and administration." The club was just recently recognized by the GRC Student Council.

To correspond with the organization's name, some of the office titles are also based on the Chinese derivative. Greg Holle serves as Supreme Chung. Darrel Tibbs is Vice-Chung, and Murray McNeil, Chung-king, has the publicity duties.

In an interview Monday, Chung Vice-Council Representative Marty Boatman explained the organization's strange name and office titles. "We wanted a club that is not in the ordinary," he said, "and the club name and office titles had to fill that requirement."

Miss Auburn Contestants Face Moment of Truth

Penny Carol

Green River College's four Miss Auburn contestants will face their own moment of truth when they compete in the finals of the Miss Auburn Beauty Pageant tomorrow evening at 8:00 in the Olympic Junior High auditorium.

The four Green River students entered in the competition are Jo'Lea Hopp, Lorraine Burkland, Carol Cavanaugh, and Penny Klevens.

Climax

That event will mark the climax of weeks of preparation which have included preliminary competition, shopping trips, and modeling classes.

Last week the contestants, and their sponsors, chaperones, and parents, were feted at a No-Hostess Dinner at the Auburn Elks Club. Following that, on May 20 they took part in an Auburn Honda parade.

Dress Rehearsal

Dress rehearsals on Tuesday and Thursday of this week capped the contest preparation. And to further publicize the event, the contestants appeared Wednesday on the J.P. Patches television show.

Along with the six other entrants, Green River's four beauties will be judged on the basis of bathing suit and formal competition, talent, and poise.

Tickets for the Pageant are priced at $2.50 and may be purchased at the door.

Management Club, Nurses Contest Co-Winners

The management and nurses clubs were co-winners this year in Green River College's Beautification Day, sponsored by management club on May 15.

According to Mr. Passage, the management club won as the group that accomplished the most. The nurses were the group with the most participants.

During Beautification Day activities, the management club prepared a walking path at the west end of the campus, put in erosion control waterfall steps, cleaned debris out of a ditch, and bought material for a hand rail along the Sophomore nature trail.

The nurses weeded around the Library building and the west parking lot.

The Spanish Club developed a trail and bridge across the creek to the campus waterfall. Chung, a new service organization, cleaned the lower parking lot. Members of the Sophomore class installed a hand rail along a 100 foot log on their nature trail.

Both the management club and the nurses will have their names engraved on the Green River Service Trophy.

School Board Passes GR Salary Increases

In one of their last official acts as the governing body for Green River Community College, the Auburn School Board Monday night approved a 15 per cent salary increase for college instructors.

In addition, Dr. Melvin Lindbloom, president of the college, received approval for creation of two new department-head posts and a director of student activities.

Also increased were the responsibility factor salaries for deans, directors, division chairmen and department heads.

Dr. Lindbloom submitted the proposed budget for 1967-68, calling for a total budget of $1,723,515. He commented that the figure does not include work-study, Manpower Development Training Act nor special program classes.

The college will become part of the state community college system on July 1 or earlier. Dr. Lindbloom said the members of the new GRCC board of trustees will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. to draw lots for one-, two-, three-, four- and five-year terms.

The board includes Dr. Richard Eidal, of Auburn; Robert Olson, of Enumclaw; William Kennelly and Dr. Robert Shaw, both of Kent, and Hugh Mathews of Renton.

The Green River Community College District, designated as District 10, includes Auburn, Kent, Enumclaw, Renton, and Tahoma School Districts and the communities of Black Diamond and Lester.

In other business, the board:

Approved an increase of 50 cents an hour for part-time instructors and added nine steps for longevity.

Granted a year's sabbatical leave to Arthur Binnie, chairman of the Technology Division. Binnie received a National Defense Education Act fellowship at Washington State University to participate in vocational counseling institute.

Approved the employment of Richard Prouty as department head in the Technology Division.

Approved the appointment of Robert Aubert, GRCC basketball coach and director of athletics, to the additional post of director of student activities.

UofT Discovers Boredom Reducer

The Daily Texan reports that students at the University of Texas have apparently discovered a method to ease depression and campus boredom. All students were recently encouraged to bring their lunches, picnic on the grass, sing, and be happy for an entire day.

The Students for a Democratic Society promoted the carefree day, designated as "Gentle Thursday".

One member explained that the purpose of such a day is to provide an opportunity for everyone to enjoy themselves and be happy and friendly in a fast-paced, hectic society.

Members of the S.D.S. sold lollipops, balloons, and flowers. Chalk was available for those who wished to draw on the sidewalks. Proverbs were distributed, and a group of minstrels and a jug band roamed the campus entertaining the students.

'Fashion'll Get You'

(ACP) - Everyone knows that women's skirts are reaching new heights. But not everyone agrees with the trend.

A graduate of Western Kentucky University, for instance, believes the upward trend has gone too far, reports the College Heights Herald.

For a recent Lion's Club banquet, the young lady chose a dress with a floor-length skirt, which, she said, would make her feel "more comfortable than a short mini skirt."

As she breezed toward the banquet room, the hem of her skirt became caught in a revolving door. Not knowing what was happening, she continued on, only to lose the entire skirt in the door.

A friend quickly placed a coat around her shoulders. Said the stunned graduate, "Fashion will get you one way or the other."

Sophomore Officers Seated

The seating of the new sophomore class officers began this week. The officers for the 1967-68 school year are: Jim Meyer, president; Cheryl Missler, vice-president; Gail Burrell, secretary-treasurer; and Terri O'Grady and Bill Collie, representatives.

Jim Meyer, a 1966 graduate of West Seattle High School, remembers his high school days devoted to football and music. Lettering in football during his senior year, music came second until the end of the season when he traded the pigskin for a pair of drumsticks.

Jim played in the school stage band, marching band, and for three years he played in the Seattle All-City High School Band. While at Green River as a freshman, he sings in the choir, and recently played a major roll in the college's production of "The Solid Gold Cadillac."

St. Leo Grad

Cheryl Missler graduated from St. Leo's High School last June. At St. Leo's she was active in the choir and worked in the library. Much of Cheryl's free time was spent in working for the Sa-La-Hi, the school newspaper.

Since coming to Green River, Cheryl has represented the freshman class in student council, and has acted a chairman of the car rally.

Office Girl

A graduate of Kent-Meridian High School, Gail Burrell has worked as an office girl in the H-S office. In high school she was active as Girls Honor vice-president, G.A.A. secretary, a member of Torch and Latin Clubs, and editor of the yearbook.

Gail Burrell, sec.-treas; Jim Meyer, president; Terri O'Grady, rep.; Bill Collie, rep.; and Cheryl Missler, vice-pres. pause a moment in their activities to be seated as the 1967-68 sophomore class officers.

She is also a member of the Political Action Club and served as co-chairman of the Spring Semi-formal.

Bill Collie came to Green River upon graduating from Renton High School. While working full time, he found enough time to hit the slope as a member of Ski Club last quarter.

Terri O'Grady graduated from Auburn High School where she was a senate representative and member of the tennis team. She is Green River's W.A.C.C.S.G. representative, and she was among the Green River representation at the state W.A.C.C.S.G. convention last week where she was elected state secretary.

Mr. Hanscom Named President of A.H.E.

Mr. John Hanscom, political science and history instructor at Green River College, has been named President of the Association of Higher Education for the coming 1967-68 school year.

Selection was made on the basis of nomination and vote.

Mr. Hanscom stated that his duties will be to preside over local meetings of the Washington Education Associations, and to promote the interest of the teachers mainly in working conditions, ethics, and salary. Eighty to eighty-five per cent of the teachers here at GRCC are presently members of AHE.

Mr. Lester Midge, Electronics teacher at Green River is president at this time.

Science Lab Supervisor Hunts Live Specimens

Mrs. Kathy George, laboratory supervisor in the science department finds the Green River College grounds excellent for true to life experiments with the natural wild-life.

Her everyday job is to take care of the variety of animals that can be found near and around the biology labs. At the present, her assortment consists of frogs, fish, snakes, salamanders, and turtles. She makes sure all the laboratory equipment is in proper order and functions correctly, and takes care of the Green River greenhouse located between the L-Building and the S-T complex.

Each day Mrs. George can be seen heading for the woods to collect her daily supply of nature; plants, insects, and small freshwater animals for labs. After the experimentation with the animals by the science classes, she returns the animals to their natural habitat.

Mrs. George, having been a nurse at the Auburn hospital and after nursing studies at Green River, finds her job as lab assistant "quite challenging" and a "different sort of life."

Mrs. George has been married 19 years and is the mother of four teenagers.

'Individual Is Sovereign' Declares Spellman

By MARYANEY

"The theme that I enunciate is a very, to some extent, ancient and venerated political doctrine." Dr. John W. Spellman, assistant professor of Asian studies at the University of Washington, made that remark Monday afternoon in the opening minutes of his speech at Green River College.

Spellman then went on to liken his own political philosophy to that of John Stuart Mill's "Essay on Liberty."

"Over his own mind and body the individual is sovereign," Spellman said, and cited passages from the essay supporting that claim.

"It is the only concept of liberty that one can accept in a free society," he said.

CONTROVERSIAL

Spellman, a controversial figure who had been literally shouted down by adult members of an audience at Kent-Meridian High School, explained that he had not been aware that his ideas were so different and unreasonable.

"I try to say things that are very reasonable, and with which, I think, nearly everyone should agree," Spellman said, pointing out that it was evidently different in the valley.

DEFINE LIBERTY

Then he went on to define liberty as the individual's "ability to exercise options." It is not right, Spellman maintained, to pass laws against the exercise of these options unless their exercise constitutes a danger to others.

"Mere offensiveness," he said, "is not enough."

Spellman then attempted to outline the proper relationship between individual liberty and the state.

"All liberty is vested in the individual," he said, "He surrenders to the state only a certain portion of his liberty. It is not that the state gives our liberty to us. We already have it."

DECLARATION

Adding to that premise, Spellman declared that we have the legal right to exercise options over all our actions which are not a threat to public health, safety, or welfare.

And Spellman warned against making liberty and democracy synonymous.

"For democracy by no means necessitates liberty; nor does liberty necessitate democracy."

FURTHERMORE...

Further on in his speech he added to that statement by saying, "For we well know, with this word democracy, that we have many democracies in the world today. The words are not really as significant as the policies of the state."

Turning to a discussion of what he terms "encroachments on the right to exercise options," Spellman's remarks ranged from comments on prison sentences for homosexuals to censorship.

LAW CONTEMPTIBLE

"Of course there will be contempt for the law," he said, "when the law is so contemptible . . . when so many ridiculous things are made laws."

"Today the City Council of Seattle," he said, by way of explanation, "that enlightened group of dinosaurs, is meeting to pass a law on loitering." That statement drew loud laughter from the audience of students and faculty gathered in the Green River Library.

OTHER LAWS

In discussing other laws, Spellman pointed out that all but one state have laws forbidding consenting acts of homosexual behavior. Such acts, he emphasized, were private options which did no harm to others.

Then he ridiculed modern methods for dealing with such behavior.

"I can hardly imagine a more senseless step than putting homosexuals in prison," Spellman said. "You might as well put a drunk in a brewery as a homosexual in prison."

ILLEGAL DRUGS

Turning to the problem of illegal drug use, Spellman stated the case of a young man sentenced to 20 years in prison for using marijuana. Spellman pointed out that a 20-year sentence was usually given murderers, and declared, "Now, how anyone can equate murder with the ingestion of marijuana strikes me as a very senseless equation."

Spellman then moved to the problem of censorship, and said, "there is no proof that pornography promotes dangerous sexual drives. Obscenity itself can never legitimately be made a crime unless it can be shown that these ideas constitute a clear and causal danger."

TRUTH FRAGILE

Attacking the City Council's refusal to let Dr. Timothy Leary to speak in the Opera House, Spellman said, "If our truth is so fragile that we have to protect it by the police power of the state, then surely we are in a strange situation."

"The suppression of an idea is a denial of an idea, is a denial of liberty not only to those concerned, but to posterity as well," Spellman said. He added, "If the ideas of Socrates and Jesus had been suppressed by the state, undoubtedly the course of Western civilization would have been very different."

DRAFT COMMENTS

Spellman also commented on the draft, pronouncing it equivalent to "a national identification card," and adding, "The right to be anonymous, the right to privacy is, I fear, a myth - a cheat - in this country when one considers the encroachments made upon it."

In the closing minutes of his 50-minute long speech, Spellman warned against letting society squelch the individual.

"What once were individuals have now become, I fear, units to be regulated by the machine values of society. Our ability to exercise options has become the earmark of a society both chronologically and figuratively approaching 1984."

RESPECT DESIRE

"On the whole, our communications media respects our desire to merely spectate," Spellman said, stating that we have little concern for liberty. "But liberty is not a luxury," he said, "it is a necessity. Wordly success, material achievement, technological advances . . . would be oppressive and stifling without liberty."

Spellman left the audience with this challenge:

"You must understand," he said, "that these laws are committed partly in your name. If you can accept that then it is right to remain silent. But if you do not accept them, then I cannot understand why you do not fulfill what I consider to be your moral responsibility. It is a decision you have to make."

ANSWERS QUERIES

Following his speech, Spellman remained at the podium to answer questions from the audience. Students and faculty questioned the speaker.

One student asked Spellman where he might find writings on the subject.

"Unfortunately," Spellman said, in a response that brought laughter from the audience, "most of my writing has been done in the field of ancient Indian history. But if you want to study my philosophy read Mill's 'Essay on Liberty,' or," Spellman added, "the United States Constitution."

Miller on the Rocks

By JON FERGUSON

The sky is dark and threatening. It's growing colder and the ominous silence of before gives way to the eeriness of wind blowing through the dense forest.

It begins to rain, and the lonely traveller on the narrow, rocky road senses the utter desolation of the place.

Sudden Activity

Suddenly, there's a great deal of activity. A group of fifteen or twenty people is clustered around a dusty yellow school bus. They are carrying numerous large rocks and placing them on the bus. Has the world gone mad?

No, it hasn't really. It's Dr. Gerald Miller of Green River College leading his geology 208 class through the fields and up the cliffs. The class, new this quarter at GRCC, studies the geology of Washington and Oregon and a good deal of time is spent in field research.

Already, the class has ventured up the middle fork of the Snoqualmie River and to the Arlington-Darrington area. An additional trip was taken May 25 to study formations in Snoqualmie, Blewett, and Stevens Pass areas.

Evident Fruits

The fruits of these expeditions are very evident on the campus. The many big rocks displayed, particularly near the ST complex, testify to the strength and endurance of Dr. Miller's students.

So, if you want to crack rocks, dust off your old hammer and sign up for the class. You are assured of some very interesting travel and exercise.

DR. JOHN W. SPELLMAN

Brovold, Opp, Neal Head for State

Trio Wins Points at Regional

Greg Brovold lets go with 196-foot javelin toss for record at regional meet.

Dale Opp leads in the two mile.

Greg Brovold, Dale Opp, and Joe Neal will carry Green River's colors tonight and tomorrow in the state community college track meet at Yakima.

All three qualified last week at Shoreline in the Northern Division meet by setting school records in their respective events.

Opp, a sophomore distance runner from Kent, clipped eight seconds off his best time of the year by running the two-mile in 9:36 to take second place behind Shoreline's Booker who won it in 9:33. At state tomorrow Opp will definitely be aiming for his best performance of the year and could come back with top honors.

Brovold finished second in the javelin with a toss of 196-6½, the second best throw in the conference this year. Coach Sam Martin is predicting that Brovold will go over 200 feet at state, in spite of the fact that before last Saturday Brovold's best performance was 179 feet. "We changed his grip last week," explained Martin. "It improved his form tremendously. He now throws more naturally. His worst throw Saturday was 180 feet. He has tremendous potential."

Brovold is a refuge from the baseball diamond. The blonde freshman from Enumclaw who won all-conference honors as one of the leading scorers in the state community college conference this year wanted to pitch on the baseball team this spring. But when the Athletic Department decided to delay the start of baseball a year, Brovold went out for track and ran the hurdles, high jumped a little, ran the anchor leg on the 440 relay team, and threw the javelin. At the start of the season he did well in most of the events he entered but didn't really excel. But by the end of the year, Brovold was easily the choice for Most Improved Athlete on the track team. He won the award at Monday's All-Sports Banquet.

Joe Neal went 12-6 in the pole vault for a fifth place finish Saturday at Shoreline and qualified for state. Neal's best is 12-9 but last week he just missed at 13-0. Although the winning vaulter is expected to top 14 feet, Neal could win a place at state if he can get above the 13-foot mark.

The Green River 440-relay team of Jim Frazer, Mike Arnaud, Jerry Kirby, and Greg Brovold took fifth place at the Northern Division meet but only two relay teams from each division qualify for the state meet.

Dale Opp Double Winner At Sportsman Banquet

The recent Lettermen's Banquet was a tribute to many fine athletes. Among the elite of the elite is Dale Opp. Dale, a sophomore, was a double winner.

His teammates not only selected him as the most valuable in cross-country but his running mates from the track team chose him as the most valuable and the most inspirational. Winning awards in two different sports is itself a fine achievement, but to win two awards in one sport and one in another sport is beyond the fondest dreams of most athletes.

1965 Grad

Dale graduated from Kent-Meridian High School in 1965. As captain of the cross-country team, Dale led his mates to high honors. In track Dale ran the two-mile. His efforts in his senior year led him to the state finals.

Upon graduation, Dale enrolled at Green River with hopes to be a teacher. His sports activities have not hampered his studies and he is a good student who has maintained good grades.

Serious Threat

Dale ran on last year's cross-country team and lettered. This year he was a serious threat to opposing runners. His best time of the season was at an invitational meet at Clark Community College where he set a meet record. Since the courses differ from year to year his time is not officially recognized as a record.

This track season Dale ran in the two-mile, mile relay, mile, and the 880. His best time for the two-mile is 9:35, an improvement over his old time of 9:46. Dale has earned the right to represent Green River in the State meet this week-end at Yakima. Dale has run the 880 in 2:02 and his time for the mile is 4:32.

After Green River, Dale plans to attend either Seattle Pacific College or Central Washington State College.

Bull, Tiger To Tangle

Tonight will see the young bruising bull tangle with the experienced tiger. The event is the fight between California's Eddie Machen and Renton's Boone Kirkman. The site of the event will be the Seattle Coliseum.

Both fighters have been in vigorous training since the signing of the fight. Machen has done most of his training in Berkeley, Calif., while Kirkman has been working out at the Evergreen Gym. Both fighters have been sparring five days a week and both are ready to go.

The fight will be Kirkman's first test and could be a step towards the crown.

Tickets for the card are on sale at Sherman-Clay and other ticket agencies.

Top Athletes Honored at Banquet

"Welcome to a night with Dale Opp." That is how guest speaker Don Richman summed up Green River's first Lettermen's Banquet. The praise is not without merit as Opp won awards in two separate sports.

Opp was named the most-valuable in both cross country and track, and his fellow cindermen also voted him the most inspirational. Greg Brovold was also a double winner as he received an award for most valuable in basketball and the most improved in track.

Opp was the No. 1 cross country man and in track he has earned the right to represent Green River at the state meet. He is entered in the two-mile and qualified with a run of 9:36.

Brovold placed on the all-conference basketball team as he led the Gators in scoring and rebounding. He was also among the top ten scorers in the state. Brovold turned out for track only after he found out that Green River would be without a baseball team. Having pitched in high school he decided to try throwing the javelin. His "knuckle ball javelin" has reached a distance of 196 feet, second best in the state. He also holds school records in the shot-put, discus, and hurdles. He was also a member of the Weight Man's Relay team that set a meet record at Highline three weeks ago.

The banquet was a success as 175 people attended. Guest speaker Don Richman, general manager of the Seattle Supersonics, talked about the new Seattle pro hoop team. Mr. Harold Taylor, director of the night school, acted as master of ceremonies.

Coaches presenting the awards were Bill Lathrop, cross country; Doug Carr, wrestling; Bob Aubert and Nigel Adams, basketball; Jim Farrell, swimming; and Sam Martin, track.

Award winners were as follows:
Basketball - Roger Sloan, most inspirational; Jack Boyett, most improved; Greg Brovold, most valuable.

Wrestling - Don Edwards, most valuable; Walt Pedefferri, most inspirational; Karl Kohl, most improved.

Cross Country - Kurt Bonar, most inspirational; Dennis Jones, most improved; Dale Opp, most valuable.

Swimming - Mike Bemis, most valuable; Dennis Dole, most inspirational; Don Ferguson, most improved.

Track - Dale Opp, most valuable and most inspirational; Greg Brovold, most improved.

Music director Ron Smith anxiously awaits opening of Performing Arts Building.

August Deadline Set for Music Building

The Green River College Music-Drama Building will be completed by August of this year, according to Music Instructor Ron Smith.

The building, which has been under construction since last September, will include offices for the music and drama instructors, practice rooms for choir and drama, and three medium-sized classrooms.

In addition, the facility also will include a 350 seat auditorium with a projection room for movies and lighting. The auditorium stage will be extra-large in accordance with the plans of the designers. Scenery will be stored in a space eight feet high underneath the stage, and will be raised, rather than lowered, for set changes.

The auditorium ceiling is suspended for acoustical and decorative purposes. The lush teak interior will complement green and gold carpeting.

The building was designed by the same people who designed the Seattle Center Opera House.

Freshmen Win Award For Service

The Green River service trophy has been awarded to the freshman class for the month of March, the sophomore class for the month of April and the Management Club for the month of May.

The college honored the freshman class because of their preliminary advertisement and planning of the Spring Semi-formal during March.

For the work done by the sophomores on the co-sponsored dance, they were chosen the recipients for April.

The recent Management Club sponsored campus Beautification Day was selected as the most worthwhile service to the college during the month of May, and, for their efforts, the club was awarded the trophy.

DIZZY D.Z. New League May Not Last Long

By Danny Zivanich

Seattle has aged to the point where it is beginning to yearn for professional sports. The Seattle Totems have spread the pro hockey fever, the Sonics are doing the same with basketball, the Angels are filling

Baseball Plans Announced

Athletic Director Robert Aubert recently announced plans for baseball. The sport will be introduced to Gator fans next year. Mr. Aubert announced Mr. Marvin Nelson as head coach.

Mr. Nelson, currently with the math department, stated that the chances for a team next year are "99.9%." He went on to add that the equipment has been ordered, arrangements for a field are under way, and the schedule is being drawn up.

Green River will play their home games either on Auburn's home field or at Kent Memorial Park. Mr. Nelson said that he hopes an area will be cleared behind the gym so that the diamonders could practice on campus.

With most of the allotted money spent on equipment, scholarships will be on a limited basis. But the following year recruiting will be in full swing.

Next year's schedule will include several games with surrounding college frosh teams plus the regular schedule of community college games. At the end of the season the top two teams from each division will compete in a state tournament.

Mr. Nelson concluded that he hoped the baseball players now on campus will return next year.

the baseball hunger, and next fall Seattle will have a semi-pro football team in the Seattle Jets.

Professional sports are catching on. Not even the Regnets and the City Council, nor the minority of voters will keep pro football out for long. With this hunger for pro sports has come a sincere interest in what is going on.

No War

Seattle's Sonics have said they will not engage in a wage war with the newly formed American Basketball Association over draft choices. This action, if truly taken is to be lauded. The Sonics should not try to outbid the new A.B.A. The new league is not long for this world.

This column feels that the new league will not last for more than three or four years. The reasons behind the logic are quite simple.

No Drawing Power

In the first place, basketball does not have the drawing power that football has; therefore, two teams in one city will not survive. Fans will go see the older N.B.A. play. Secondly, the N.B.A. has all the stars, Wilt Chamberlin, Bill Russell, and Rick Barry.

The A.B.A. cannot seriously think that they are going to dent the popularity of the N.B.A. The new league may last for a few years, but it will soon find itself in debt.

Rally Round Valley Area

Koval, Richards Capture First Place Rally Honors

Finishing just seconds off the allotted time, Dan Koval and Lockie Richards placed first in Green River's freshman class sponsored car rally.

Taking second place was Chuck Bonner and Harry James, 46 seconds off.

Proving the fact that men are not unbeatable when it comes to cars, Beth Klinkel and Carol Gowan took second place, being 1 minute, 8 seconds off.

Of the 36 cars that signed up for the rally, the majority finished the rally and nearly every car was reported to have made a wrong turn at least once during the rally.

The first-place winners hit a telephone pole and made 4 wrong turns, but managed in the end result to make up lost time on the straight-away, returning to the upper college parking lot, where they had started, in 2 hours, 29 minutes and 16 seconds.

The course, having started at the upper parking lot, wound through the Puyallup Valley to Sumner and Orting from Auburn. The first check point was a few miles outside Orting where De Ette Pravitz, and Mary Kendal were on hand to serve coke.

Following the road to Buckley and Enumclaw, the cars were required to stop at a checkpoint near an airport, pick up a rock with their number on it, and proceed to Auburn once more for another rest stop where hamburgers were served at a local drive-in.

Proceeding onward, the cars went through Auburn to Kent and then returned to the parking lot where the winners were announced.

The Sunday drive was pleasing to some of the entrants but fateful for others. Two of the cars required changing of a tire on the way, and one of the cars had trouble with a fuel pump; but, in the true spirit of a rally entrant, after repairs, each car finished the rally.
