Write-in Candidates Liven ASB Campaign

Controversy reigns as students get ready to go to the polls Wednesday to vote for officers of the Associated Student Body.

The controversy arose over the clause in the constitution that says a candidate for office must be in good standing "at the time he files his petition." The Senate, after much debate, decided that any student on disciplinary probation or "low scholarship" was not in good standing. The newly adopted no-F policy says that any student who receives two or more non-grades, such as a withdrawal, an incomplete, or a non-credit is on "low scholarship." Such a status can be appealed. The Senate also ruled that a student must be a full-time student to run.

Four candidates, as a result, have announced they will run as "write-in" candidates. The announcement was made even before filing closed Wednesday. Therefore, they maintain, they don't have to "be in good standing at the time of filing petitions" since they file no petitions as write-in candidates.

Announced write-in candidates are Dan Hunt and Dave Messmer for president, and Paula Rice, Darrel Hagen, and Dave Johnson for senator-at-large.

Those candidates who had filed by press time included Norman Margullis and Jay Clemens for president; Tony Bressan, Gordon Ip, and George Casanove for vice-president; Michael Herold, Dan Michels and Diane Esau for senator; Steve Whitford, Karrin Montford, and Mike Carey for senator-at-large; Don Bryce for sophomore class president; Ronald Davenport and Brian Thometz for sophomore vice-president; and Carol Lang for sophomore class secretary-treasurer.

Write-ups on individual candidates will be found on page three.

Candidates will speak to students in a special assembly on the Commons at noon Tuesday in ST-5. Voting will take place Wednesday and Thursday from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. in the Upper Lounge.

Several activities during the noon hour will be scheduled during the day. Details about the program will be announced next week by the club.

The week of April 21 has been proclaimed as Physical Therapy Week in the state by Gov. Daniel J. Evans.

The Physical Therapy Club has been functioning unofficially this year since no formal proposals for acceptance as a college club have been submitted to the Student Senate. Members of the club hope to gain official recognition by the school that week.

UW Plans Meet

The University of Washington annual International Show, presented by the U.W. foreign students, will be held at the Seattle Opera House at 8:00 p.m. on Friday, April 25, and at 2 p.m. on Sunday, April 27.

Leading Conservative To Speak Tomorrow

Dr. Russell Kirk, considered the "chief architect of modern conservatism," will speak at Green River at noon on Friday, April 18, in the Performing Arts Building. He will speak on "Decadence and Recovery in American Education."

Dr. Kirk, a writer, editor, lecturer, columnist, and former professor, wrote The Conservative Mind in 1953. He has written 15 books and has authored 400 essays and short stories that have appeared in leading periodicals in the United States and abroad.

Among his 17 university degrees is a doctorate of letters from St. Andrews University in Scotland, the only American to hold the highest arts degree of the senior Scottish university.

The Conservative Mind deals to some extent with the philosophies of Edmund Burke but in 1967 Dr. Kirk came out with a book devoted entirely to Burke entitled Edmund Burke, A Genius Reconsidered.

CAMPUS GUESTS - Representatives of the American Occupational Therapy Association were on campus last week to evaluate the Green River OT program. Meeting in the president's office were, from left, Dr. Arney Lind, director of the School of Occupational Therapy at the University of South Dakota; Miss Shirley Boeing, director of the GRCC program; Dr. Melvin Lindbloom, college president; and Miss Mildred Schwagneyer, director of technical education for the American Occupational Therapy Association.

OT Accrediting Team Visits

Miss Mildred Schwagneyer, director of technical education for the American Occupational Therapy Association, New York City; and Dr. Arney Lind, director of the School of Occupational Therapy at the University of North Dakota; made an accreditation visit to the Green River Community College campus last week.

The two representatives of the American Occupational Therapy Association visited classes, examined courses, and inspected clinic facilities that are used for training OT students during their three days on campus, April 8-9-10. They will make recommendations to the national committee and the official announcement on accreditation will be made in June.

The Green River program for training Certified Occupational Therapy Assistants is in its second year of operation under the direction of Miss Shirley Boeing. The COTA program will be one of the vocational courses housed in the new Occupational Training building now under construction.

In a meeting that coincided with the OT accreditation visit, members of the GRCC Advisory Board on Occupational Therapy, plus several invited guests, met on campus with Miss Boeing and members of the college's Division of Health Sciences.

The Advisory Committee and guests represented the following health care facilities in the state: Department of Labor and Industries Rehabilitation Center in Seattle; Western State Hospital in Steilacoom; Issaquah

Editorials and Opinion

Get Involved!!! VOTE

On the 23 and 24 of this month the polls will reopen for elections of student officers. These elections are for your student government leaders so the editor and staff of this paper urge the importance to get out and vote.

In the last election we had only 25 per cent of the student body turn out to vote and with such a small percentage of voters some officers were elected that students didn't want elected. If you as a voter don't get out to vote, how can you sit back and complain about the people that were elected?

In order to elect the officers of your choice, you must get involved and out and vote.

It is your duty to your school to pick officers of your choice that you feel will do the best job possible.

Dave Johnson

Former World Record Holder

Cramer Joins GRCC Staff As Administrative Intern

JOHN TURNBULL

John Cramer, a graduate student working toward a Ph. D. degree in higher education at the University of Washington, has joined the staff this quarter at Green River Community College as an administrative intern. Much of his time will be spent with Pres. Melvin Lindbloom; Dean of Students Earl Norman; Dean of Instruction Harold Taylor; and other administrative officers at the college.

Mr. Cramer's professional background as a teacher has a distinct international flavor. He has taught at University College in Dublin, Ireland; Palomares Jr. High School in Pomona, Calif.; the University of Idaho; Saimaan Kansalaisopisto, an adult education institute in Lappeenranta, Finland; Highline College; and the University of Washington.

In his travels, Mr. Cramer has visited a total of 20 different countries. On one of his six trips to Europe, he fell in love with one of Finland's top recording artists and was married in Helsinki. He now has a two-year-old daughter, Karen, who speaks more Finnish than English. Eila, his wife, sings in six languages.

Between books and classes at the University of Washington, Mr. Cramer finds time to participate in diverse and interesting hobbies. Between scuba diving, flying, and pole vaulting he has had several of his articles published in national magazines and journals.

JOHN CRAMER

Besides memberships in several professional organizations, Mr. Cramer has received a number of scholastic honors.

His claim to fame, however, is a result of his athletic achievements. While in high school, Mr. Cramer made three All-American teams — one in swimming and two in track. As well as setting Washington State swimming and pole vault records, he was the national pole vault champion in 1959.

While an undergraduate at the University of Washington he was national and world frosh pole vault champion and record holder, NCAA All-American, Pacific Northwest Decathlon Champion, U of W Intramural Gymnastic Champion, and unofficial world record holder at 15'11 1/4" with the metal pole.

In 1965, after switching to the fiberglass pole, Mr. Cramer attained the second highest vault in the world with a mark of 16'7 1/4". This gave him a berth on the AAU All-America Track and Field Team.

He feels that his experiences as a representative of the United States in international competitions with Russia, Poland, and many other countries certainly provided an education not obtainable in the classroom. He explained, "The friendships made and the resultant contribution toward international understanding and good will provided the most thrilling and rewarding moments in my experiences abroad."

In response to our question about his formula for success, Mr. Cramer said that "success in anything is the result of devotion and hard work, for one normally gets out of something what he puts into it. I am very thankful for my good fortune and help others have given me, and hope that I can, in turn, help others in some small way to realize the job of self-fulfillment, whether in academic or non-academic endeavor."

Mr. Cramer's final comment concerned Green River: "I have fallen in love with the natural and relaxed environment of the Green River College campus and feel very fortunate to have this opportunity to work with probably the finest community college administrative staff in the state."

Two-Day Session at Camp

'It Was a Success,' Say Student Leaders

By MATILDA BLACK

A "rip-roaring success" is the opinion of most of the students that attended the Student Leadership Retreat at Camp Seymour Sunday and Monday.

Inspirations generated at the meetings were evident on the bus ride home. Most of those aboard felt students who could have participated but didn't, really missed the boat.

Besides the work sessions the students had fun during the "recreation periods." Sunday evening after dinner a pair of college teachers, Robert Casad and Bert Bickel, and a cousin of Mr. Bickel, Harold Nerland, sang folk songs and accompanied the group in community singing. The audience persuaded Mr. Casad and Mr. Bickel to do solo numbers. Mr. Bickel sang a song that he wrote himself.

Campfire Sunday night featured Jay Clemens, Tony Bressan, and Keith Williams who improvised a Laugh-in type newscast. Joke telling, singing, and ghost stories followed.

Just before the bus left, a boy-girl football game was held. Any similarity to official rules was accidental. Cards and singing passed the time on the return trip home.

Talk Sessions Start

Can you Talk? Do you know how to communicate? There is a new group on campus consisting of students and faculty who want to find the answers to the possible existent problems of communications between faculty and students.

For their first meeting, there was no planned discussion, just an open frankness of thoughts conveyed by students to faculty and vice versa. The meeting was held informally on the lawn Tuesday, April 8 at noon.

If you have ideas you wish to convey to students and faculty, the Communications in Education committee is the place to do it, and now is the time. Meetings are held as often as those having something to say want to hold them.

Have something to say? Want a place to say it? Then, contact Mr. Dave Mowrer in H.S.-47 or Gayle Rickle in the H.S. Office Building and they'll contact the committee for a session. Students and faculty are welcome. Don't Be Afraid to Speak UP!

Next meeting: April 25 at noon. Weather permitting it will be on the lawn by the Commons, otherwise in PA-8.

Drama Meet Planned

A Drama Symposium will be held this Saturday in the Performing Arts building on GRCC campus.

Students and college instructors of drama from local schools will take part in the symposium, according to Drama Instructor Gary Taylor, and the program will be divided into two sessions.

During the morning session, starting at 10 a.m., a lecture will be presented by Dr. Norman Stokle, of the University of Washington Drama department, and a specialist in satire. This will be followed at 11 a.m. by two satirical pieces performed by Mr. Taylor's GRCC drama students: "American Dream," by Edward Albee, and "The Country Wife," by William Wycherly.

The afternoon session, starting at 1 p.m. will consist of workshops, in order that symposium participants may discuss the play performances and their particular forms separately.

The symposium is open to the public.

Dental Policy Changed

A new policy on dental care recently adopted by the Veterans Administration extends treatment to Vietnam era veterans on a more liberal basis, Reed L. Clegg, Director of the Seattle VA Hospital, said today.

VA provides treatment for dental conditions that originated or were aggravated during military service if veterans apply during the first year after release from service.

Previously, all ex-service-men had to support their requests by military records.

Under VA's new policy, dental treatment may be provided without supporting military records if it is determined professionally — during the first eight months after release from service — that the condition is service-connected.

The veterans must make his application within the first six months after release from service and he must have served on active duty six months or more to qualify for the new benefit.

Clegg said the new policy is expected to extend dental care to veterans who developed conditions during military service that were not entered in their records.

Students Upgrade Leadership Standards at Retreat Sessions

By MATILDA BLACK

An understanding of student government was discussed by GRCC students, faculty, and administration attending a Leadership Retreat held at Camp Seymour Sunday and Monday.

Several questions were brought up and the participants provided some thought-provoking answers. Among the questions proposed were:

Why does student government exist? It is a democratic tradition that begins to give students an opportunity to have a voice in their own destiny.

Do students have power to influence policy about curriculum, effective teaching, and other policy directly affecting them? Yes, they should be able to discuss such matters in the Student Senate and present their views to the faculty. Concerned students should present their case to the Senate. Enough pressure will cause an administration to give serious consideration to those opinions, discussion leaders felt.

One conclusion in the Power and Limitations of Student Leaders discussion was that students have not realized they have the right and power to act upon their opinions. The group concluded that the college administration is not a second set of parents; they are in existence to serve the students. Their purpose is to inform students how to acquire an education and assist students toward the goal.

STUDENTS ARE WELCOMED at both the college Council meetings and the Board of Trustees meetings. A student cannot vote legally at those meetings but can affect policy by presenting his view point during discussion. The Responsibilities of Office Holders discussion pointed out:

1. Student senators should inform the general Student Body of their actions.
2. Senators represent the college, even when off campus.
3. Senators should bring complaints to the attention of the administration.
4. Senators should take a definite pride on their jobs.

Many Means of Stimulating Interest in Student Government were discussed in another section. It was generally agreed there is a serious breakdown in communications and that ignorance, not apathy, is responsible for the lack of student participation in some events. GRCC is a new school with many precedents and traditions to be established; however, most students do not realize they have this rare opportunity.

PROPOSALS to post student government leaders' pictures in the lobby of the library or the Student Center and use the college public address system to announce student activities three times daily are being considered.

The Goals for Next Year's Student Government included more and better publicity, a student operated session at orientation for new students, more personal contact between student officers and the student body, the need to evolve a standard of ethics, create enthusiasm for student government, and provide a better and larger training medium for practical political practices during later life.

It was pointed out several times during the Retreat that the Board of Trustees and administration of the college are exceptionally receptive to the needs and wants of the students.

Gator Trackmen Set Two Records, Finish Second to Highline

Highline College trackmen chalked up nine firsts to completely outclass the four-team field Saturday at Auburn in the second home meet of the season for Green River's Gators.

A steadily improving Green River team, paced by a pair of Kent freshmen — Mike Berbaum and Brad Moore, took second place. Highline finished with 90 points, Green River 43, Seattle Community College 34, and Bellevue 17.

Steve Whittler of Highline, Brad Moore of Green River, and Perseal King of Seattle were all double winners — but the most overworked man on the field was Mike Berbaum who won top individual honors by scoring 13% points.

Berbaum missed the first meet of the season and there was a fear he would be out for the season because of illness, but he competed for the first time this season a week ago. But he didn't run his favorite event, the hurdles, until Saturday. He finished third in the 120 yard high hurdles, but was leading in the 330 intermediate hurdles (his fifth event of the day) when he hit a hurdle and lost stride. Steve Whittler caught him and Berbaum had to settle for a second. But he also got a second in the 100, ran on the second place 440 relay team that knocked four-tenths of a second off the 44.5 school record set last week, and won the long jump. He leaped 22-3, setting another school record.

Teammate Brad Moore won both the javelin and the pole vault but had close competition in both. He defeated teammate Ken Christel by just better than a foot in the Javelin and tied with Highline's Sims in the pole vault at 14-0. But since Moore made the jump on his first try and Sims didn't make it until the third try, Moore won the event.

The results:
440 Relay — Highline (Nelson, Wood, Norman, and Swanson), Green River, Seattle, Bellevue 43.4.
Mile — Jack Pyle (H), DeRuyter (H), Peterson (H), Stokes (B) 4:25.
Javelin — Brad Moore (GR), Christel (GR), Corssland (B), Young (H) 170-4.
120 High Hurdles — Steve Whittler (H), Varner (H), Berbaum (GR) 15.8.
Shot Put — Don Severson (S), Anaka (H), Kleitach (H), Torbenson (GR) 49-7/4.
High Jump — Perseal King (S), tie for second — Midgett (H), and Dimak (S), tie for fourth, Dale (H) and Richmond (B) 6-0.
440 — Don Pedrick (B), Knight (S), Norman (H), Casonova (GR) 50.4.
Long Jump — Mike Berbaum (GR), Paxton (GR), King (S), Martin (H) 22-3.
100 — Gary Nelson (H), Berbaum (GR), Goddard (GR), Kohut (B) 10.6.

330 Int. Hurdles — Steve Whittler (H), Berbaum (GR), Varner (H), Peterman (S) 40.9.
220 — Swanson (H), tie for second, Nelson (H) and Knight (S), Wood (H) 22.8.
Discus — Bruce Martin (H), Anaka (H), Bennett (B), Severson (S) 144-2/4.
Triple Jump — Perseal King (S), Martin (H), Olson (H), Goldingay (B) 42-2/4.

Mile Relay — Highline (Wood, Whittler, Berwold, Norman), Green River, Bellevue 3:30.7.
Pole Vault — Brad Moore (GR), Sims (H), tie for third, Evans (B) and Bauk (H) 14-0.

Golfers Head For Skagit

Green River College golfers travel to Mount Vernon to take on Skagit Valley tomorrow in hopes of returning to the win column.

Last week the Gators lost to Shoreline on Saturday, 318 to 361, and to Highline on Thursday, 321 to 331.

Skagit Valley has all four of last year's golfers back again, but the Gators defeated the Cardinal golfers last year and are hoping for a repeat victory.

Monday, April 21, the golfers go to Everett and then face Seattle on Friday, April 25, in the next home match.

RUSS KNIGHTS rounds third on his way to score in the twin bill with Edmonds last week. The Gators split that doubleheader to open the league season but defeated Everett twice Tuesday night at Everett.

Baseball Team Set For Six Games

Green River's baseball team will face a busy schedule this week as they take to the road twice for games against league opponents. On Saturday, the Gators travel to Bremerton for a doubleheader with Olympic and then on Tuesday journey to Skagit Valley for a pair with the Cardinals.

The Gators let newcomer Edmonds escape with a split last Friday in the first league action of the season. The Gators had a chance to sweep the twinbill, but their rally fell short in the final inning of the first game and the Tritons hung on for a 4-3 victory. The Gators came back to rout the Tritons in the second game, 6-1, scoring five runs in the first inning on three Triton errors.

The games were the first ever for Edmonds, a team that got off to a late start and did not get a chance to play in any exhibition contests this season.

But as far as they were concerned, it was better late than never.

After giving up a run to the Gators in the first inning of the first game, the Tritons scored twice in the third on a single, double and three walks to take a 2-1 lead. The Gators tied it up in their half when Russ Knights singled, stole second and then was singled home by Ken Ghorley. The tie was short-lived though, as Edmonds scored another pair in the fourth on two singles and a double.

The Gators didn't threaten again until the final inning when they had men on third and second with nobody out. Gary LaBrie's fly ball to the outfield brought in a run from third, but the Gators were unable to bring around the second base runner who was stranded at third base as the game ended.

Losing pitcher for the Gators was Randy Hatfield, who walked eight batters in the first four innings before settling down and allowing only one base runner in the final three.

Fortune wasn't with the Tritons in the second game. In fact, if anything, it was against them as the Gators jumped to a five run lead in the first inning with the benefit of only one hit.

Displaying some excellent base running, the Gators loaded the bases up on two errors and a walk and then scored a run on an error by the pitcher. Ron Lee brought in two more runs with a single to left and then moved to second on the throw home. The catcher, getting the throw too late too cut off the run, then fired to second in hopes of nabbing Lee, letting another run score as the base runner on third beat the returning throw to the plate.

The Gators added their final tally in the sixth inning when Lee singled, moved to second on an infield out and then scored on a single by the pitcher, Chuck Possenti. The Tritons only run came in the fifth on a single and a double.

Possenti pitched a brilliant game for the Gators, giving up only five hits, striking out six and walking no one.

Green River's scheduled doubleheader with the University of Washington last Saturday was washed out after only two innings of the first game had been played.

Coach Marv Nelson said that the games would probably be made up. The Gators were leading, 3-2, when the rains came.
