

Committee Seeks Candidates For Council Vacancies

Student leaders this week are seeking four replacements on the Student Council, ASB President Gary Gadwa announced today.

A student committee is seeking out candidates for the positions of student body vice-president and treasurer and two sophomore representatives. Gadwa, vice-president, was moved up to president last month when Roger Sloan resigned.

Then Jack Boyett resigned as treasurer, creating two openings among student leadership.

Gadwa will head a committee of students — Jim Meyer, Mike Willis, Cheryl Missler and Ellen Stendahl — named to select candidates for the vacated positions. Any students interested in a position on the Council may contact any one of the committee members, Gadwa pointed out.

Heath Donates $1,000 To College Loan Fund

Green River College has increased its loan capability by $25,000 because of a $1,000 contribution by Heath Tecna Plastic in Kent, Mrs. Winnie Vincent, financial aids director at the college, announced today.

The $1,000 gift from Heath to the scholarship and loan fund was presented by William Kennelly, vice president at the company, who is also a member of the college's Board of Trustees.

Mrs. Vincent explained that for every $1,000 raised by the college, the United Student Aid Funds will guarantee $12,500 which will be loaned by local banks. This money, in turn, can be matched by federal support money, one to one, which means the initial $1,000 can provide $25,000 worth of education.

The money loaned to students is paid back after graduation and the money is then available to other students needing financial help. Therefore, the funds continue to work on a revolving basis. The loans are interest free to students prior to graduation since the United Student Aid Funds pays the interest on the loans while the students are in school.

Industry, business, civic groups, professional associations, education groups, and private individuals may contribute to the loan fund in any amount, Mrs. Vincent pointed out, and the money will be matched by USAF and federal support.

Adams' Advice: 'Get Involved'

By Mary Aney

In a speech Tuesday to Green River College students and faculty members, Seventh District Representative Brock Adams urged students to "Hurry up, get involved, be with us."

Speaking in the college's new Performing Arts Building, he told his audience, "Everything depends on what happens to you. You forget that there's a lot of world going on. If Boeing drops 20,000 in employment, then suddenly you become interested in politics again."

Adams called for conscientious interest and united action to deal with deficiencies in urban education and the problem of increasing industrial development. In a direct reference to industrial changes in the Green River Valley he said, "Ten years ago Auburn was a railroad town. But you are no longer a railroad town; now you are a Boeing town."

Adams conducted his presentation informally asking for questions from the audience. He was questioned immediately about the role he planned to play in President Johnson's 1968 campaign. "I'm sure he'll have all the help he needs," Adams said. Pressed for an answer as to whether he would actively support the President if he were asked, Adams replied, "At this point I probably would."

Adams then turned to the problem of conscription. "The draft as it was set up was fine for the 1940 problem," he said in response to a student's question, "but today only one in seven is drafted . . . the system as it is doesn't operate on a fair and just basis. We have to have a fair method of conscripting."

Of United States' involvement in Vietnam, Adams said, "We're over-committed. Let's start getting ourselves out . . . I think we're in molasses up to our necks and we're hollering to everybody else, 'Don't make waves.'"

Many of the questions posed for Congressman Adams during his appearance concerned his evaluation of possible presidential candidates in the next election. He cited Governors Reagan and Rockefeller as the two leading candidates to face Johnson.

"Governor Reagan is a tremendously effective politician with very effective people around him," Adams said. And then, in reference to the possible nomination of Governor Rockefeller, he stated, "I've never really considered the possibility. I've never considered the Republican Party capable of nominating him." Asked whether he would vote for Johnson or Rockefeller if they opposed each other, Adams answered, "Then I'm in real trouble. I think Rockefeller is an excellent candidate and an excellent man."

Adams then referred to the possibility that no nominee would get a majority of the votes in the election and that the election would go to the House of Representatives. "And then," he said, "God help us." That response brought laughter and applause from the audience.

Toward the end of his appearance,

Adams took time out from his discussion of the war and the election to level a few sharp jibes at French President DeGaulle. Calling DeGaulle "a wart at the end of our nose," Adams said, "It bothers us because it's right there where we can see it but maybe if we wait awhile, like other warts, it will go away."

Congressman Adams' appearance on campus was sponsored by the Green River College Political Action Club.

Morning Business Seminar Started

Fifty-two early-rising businessmen from the Green River Valley are enrolled in another series of Green River College Business Management Seminars.

The sessions, all of which are 6:30 a.m. breakfast meetings, started Wednesday with Orville A. Ose, business consultant from Tacoma, as the guest speaker.

Speaking at the next session, Wednesday, Jan. 16, will be O. C. Scott, director of Industrial Relations, Commercial Airplane Division, of the Boeing Company. Scott has worked with the Seattle Committee on Alcoholism since 1952; is past president of the Pacific Northwest Personnel Management Association; is currently chairman of the Governor's Advisory Board on Alcoholism Sub-Committee on Local Community Funding; was vice-chairman of the State Sub-Committee on Economic Opportunities of the 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth; served as president of the Boeing Management Association; is former president of the Renton Chamber of Commerce; and is former vice president of the Seattle Urban League. He will speak on "Improving Your Personnel and Management Relations."

Other speakers on the agenda include Al Sanders, president of the Puget Sound National Bank, Jan.

23; Robert Baker, promotion director for Nye Products of Seattle, Jan. 30; Gary White, manager of the Auburn office of Pacific Northwest Bell, Feb. 6; Donald E. Bruce, assistant to the general merchandise manager of Frederick and Nelson, Seattle, Feb. 13; W. H. Bruke, group manager of Allied Stores Corp., Boise, Feb. 27; Eldon Shafter, manager of Bozell and Jacobs, Tacoma, March 5; and Kenneth C. Smith, regional sales manager of Alaska Airlines, Seattle, March 12.

The men attending represent just about all walks of the business community. The businesses represented include automobile dealers, a housemover, an insulation company, cleaning establishments, a plastics company, lumber yards, a tire dealer; a wholesale supplier, realtors, auto repair shops, a helicopter service, a boatbuilder, a power company, an insurance agency, a mobile home dealer, builders, Boeing, grocery stores, Gov-Mart, a delivery service, and some variety stores.

The seminar will conclude with a special banquet program to be planned by the group with a speaker invited to discuss practical sales psychology.

Anyone still interested in enrolling in the series may contact Richard Passage, coordinator of the program, at the college.

Ken Miller Joins Staff

Ken Miller, Seattle, will join the Green River College faculty on a full-time basis as a welding instructor beginning Monday, Jan. 15, James "Bud" Gadwa, head of the trades department at the college announced today.

Miller is a former foreman of a welding shop who has been teaching in the college's evening welding program for the past year. He will be working with Bert Badham who has been forced to reduce his teaching load on doctor's orders. Badham will continue as a part-time welding instructor at the college.

Green River offers a certificate program in welding. The length of time students spend in the program depends on their progress toward certification, Gadwa explained. Students can enter at any time. They do not have to wait for the beginning of the quarter as long as there are openings and there are openings in both evening and day welding programs now. The welding student may have to wait for the beginning of a quarter to pick up some of related classes.

The college is currently preparing a City of Seattle welding certification test which staff members hope to have ready by spring quarter.

Editorial

Campus Apathy Reflects 'Bubble-Gum' Attitude

"Hurry up, get involved, be with us."

Seventh District Representative Brock Adams, in issuing this challenge during his appearance on campus last Tuesday, put needed emphasis on a problem currently facing this school. That problem is the apparent lack of student interest and concern with both student government and national and international affairs.

The problem results, on one hand, from a diseased and out-of-place bubble-gum attitude toward responsible concern and interest. At the same time, and on the part of others, it is often resultant from an attitude of feigned sophistication, the "I'm - just - a - bit - too - mature - and - intellectual - to - worry - about - common - things - like - that" concept. Yet these people are quite often the same ones who level criticisms at both student and national government.

It does not take much intelligence to spend time haphazardly hanging accusations and condemnations on a policy, proposal, or program. And it most assuredly does not take much effort not to care. But the people who are important to this school and country are those who will take the time and make the effort to "get involved."

Last Tuesday when Congressman Adams made his appearance before this College's student body, many seats that should have been taken were not. If this represents the attitude and concern of this student body toward national and international affairs, one can well imagine the laxity of concern existent among students regarding this school's affairs.

Placement Bureau Opens

Mr. Clark Townsend, counselor, announced today that there is still time to sign up for the job placement and credentials service now being offered through the counseling center. Material regarding the service is available in the center.

The new placement bureau is planning to arrange interviews with prospective employers this spring for graduating seniors. Students who wish to participate in these interviews must have their credentials on file by January 31.

The placement bureau will set up a credentials file for each student which can be sent to prospective employers at the student's request.

Even though these services are primarily for students in the two-year technical programs, students planning to go on to a four-year institution should also have credentials on file. The student going on to a four-year college may not complete his program and may want to take advantage of this service at a later date, Mr. Townsend said.

Foreign Service Officer Speaks To Student Body

Stephen J. Ledogar, a career foreign service officer presently on duty in the Department of State, Office of Viet-Nam Affairs, spoke to Green River College students yesterday in the college's Performing Arts Building.

Ledogar, a native of Jamaica, N. Y., is a graduate of Fordham University where he received both his undergraduate and law degrees. He was a Navy flyer from 1949-1952 and served in the Naval Reserve as a jet pilot out of Brooklyn from 1954-1960.

He entered the State Department in 1959. He has served in Montreal; Milan, Italy; Viet-Nam; and Washington, D. C. A year ago this month he returned from a two-year assignment in Viet-Nam where he worked as a U.S. AID Provincial Representative in Quang Tri Province and later on special interagency study commission for the Ambassador which required travel throughout all of South Viet-Nam.

After six months duty in the Pentagon as State Representative in the National Military Command Center, he took up present duties on the Viet-Nam desk.

He speaks Italian, French, and Vietnamese.

Music Group To Include Community

Ron Smith, director of music at Green River College, today extended an invitation to members of the community to join a college-community string and woodwind ensemble.

The music group will rehearse every Tuesday and Thursday from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Anyone interested can call Mr. Smith or just report at the rehearsal times, he said.

The class may be taken for college credit, but those who want to just participate without credit will be allowed to sign up without paying a fee.

In most cases, participants will need to provide their own instruments. However, the college does have a string bass, an oboe, and a bass clarinet that musicians may use.

Enrollment Shows Drop

Student enrollment for the winter quarter, according to Mr. Richard Barclay, registrar, is down somewhat from the fall quarter. Although enrollment figures are not complete at this time, Mr. Barclay estimates the enrollment to be about 2,700.

Mr. Barclay pointed out that a decrease in enrollment for this quarter is normal. He also estimated the enrollment to be 300 or 400 more than last year's winter quarter.

The registration for night school is also down from last quarter's but is expected to pick up some during the quarter.

Tour, Lectures, Speakers Scheduled

Green River's Art Department will put into effect a three-point program during Winter Quarter. The program will consist of lectures given by the instructors, touring exhibits, and guest speakers.

GRCC art instructors, Rex Waldron and Bernard Bleha, will travel to many of the high schools in the district, lecturing about GRCC Art departments and the many opportunities and activities.

GRCC Art Departments is also planning to create tours which will be shown at the various high schools in the area. These exhibits will include works of art in the field of chalk, pen and ink, design, water color, and oil painting.

Exhibits will be set up on campus, displaying pieces of art from the various secondary schools in the area.

A series of noted speakers will be on campus during Winter Quarter to speak on paint, sculpture and design. These sessions will be open to both GRCC students and to high school students in the surrounding area.

Don Alexander to Head New Math Department

Donald W. Alexander, math instructor at Green River, has been chosen to head the newly formed mathematics department at the college. Until now, math instructors have been part of the Division of Science.

Mr. Alexander states that his duties as head of the department will be to act as spokesman for the department at all college meetings, assist in the "busy work" of ordering new supplies and adding new courses to the curriculum at GRCC.

He will also be assisting in the selection and hiring of new employees to teach in the math department.

Mr. Alexander, who came to Green River when the college opened two years ago, taught math at Auburn High School for nine years. He was chairman of the department at Auburn when he left to join the college faculty. Prior to teaching at Auburn he taught junior high school in Deming, Washington.

He has bachelor's and master's degrees in education from Western Washington State College and a master's degree in Natural Science from Seattle University.

He is presently the college's athletic commissioner, is president of the Green River chapter of the Association of Higher Education (a branch of the Washington Education Association), and is on the local Board of Management of the YMCA.

He is married and has two children at Olympic Junior High in Auburn.

Elks Awards To Be Given In February

The Auburn Elks Club has announced it is offering two new scholarships amounting to $300 each, according to Mrs. Winnie Vincent, financial aids director. The application deadline for both scholarships is January 30.

The first scholarship is the Green River College Vocational Scholarship Award and will be presented to help a worthy student attain training in a worthwhile trade.

The second scholarship is the Green River Community College Good Fellowship Award. Its objective is to award a deserving student who has shown a genuine interest in furthering his education. While scholastic achievements are important, the award also will be judged on need, citizenship, community contributions, self-improvement goals, and other contributing conditions.

Applications for both scholarships will be judged by the members of the Auburn Elks Youth Fellowship Award Committee. Announcement of winners will be made some time in February.

Students wishing to apply for these awards should contact Mrs. Vincent.

Forum Plans Meeting Jan. 18

Civic leaders Ed Garre, Mayor Robert Gaines, and David Reiten will be the featured guests as the Auburn Community Forum will present its first public program at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, January 18, in the Performing Arts Center.

This is the first in a series of programs to be presented to the public dealing with problems of local concern, according to Gordon Dick, spokesman for the Forum.

Ed Garre, president of the Auburn Chamber of Commerce, will talk about what the Chamber feels are problems of immediate concern to the community.

Mayor Gaines will present a view from the city concerning local needs.

David Reiten, supervisor of social services for the Cascadia Juvenile Reception Diagnostic Center, will talk about social concerns in Auburn in the immediate future. Reiten has been chairman of a Cascadia committee studying health, education, and welfare services for adults.

The meeting, sponsored by the Auburn Community Forum and hosted by the college, will feature a question and answer period following the brief talks. The public is invited to attend and take part.

Bozman Leads Gators In All Departments

Marion "Big Bo" Bozman leads Green River College's Gators in six departments — he even commits the most personal fouls — according to a report released by the athletic department after nine games.

Bozman is not far ahead of his teammates — four are averaging in the double figures in scoring and two others are scoring eight points a game or better — but he does lead every department. He has scored 60 field goals in nine games, hit 32 free throws, committed 38 personal fouls, has a point total of 152 points, 101 rebounds, and is averaging 16.9 points per game.

Second to Bozman in the scoring department is Moses Taylor who has the best individual output for a single game with 38 points against Lower Columbia in the holiday tournament. Taylor has a 16.3 average. He's hit 58 field goals, just two less than Bozman for second place in that department; has 31 free throws, just one less than Bozman; and has 147 points — five less than his 6-7 teammate.

John Harrell is second in rebounds with 87, an average of 10.9 per game. Bozman is averaging 11.2 per game. Second in personal fouls is Tim Cummings with 28, an average of three per game.

Following Bozman and Taylor in the scoring race are Tim Cummings with 128 points, a 14.2 average; John Harrell with 97, a 12.1 average; Duane Barnette, 88 points for a 9.8 average; and Roger Sloan with 5.0.

No statistics on scoring percentages were available at this report. The team has been averaging 86.4 points per game, dropping below 80 only once when the Gators lost to Yakima, 76-74. Twice they have topped 90, scoring 99 points against Clark. The team is now 7-2 for the season with 2-0 league record.

A summary of the team statistics is as follows:

NAME	G	FG	FT	PF	TP	Reb.	Avg.
Marion Bozman	9	60	32	38	152	101	16.9
John Harrell	8	41	15	19	97	87	12.1

Green River Basketball Squad To Face Olympic, Grays Harbor

Green River College's Gators will shoot for their third and fourth straight league victories tonight and Saturday as they take on Olympic College and Grays Harbor.

Last weekend the Gators started league play with a pair of wins but they had a tough time both nights, defeating Clark Friday in three overtimes, 98-92, and topping a fired-up Edmonds club Saturday, 84-80.

Neither Olympic nor Grays Harbor was impressive in pre-league play, but both started the season last weekend with victories over Peninsula, a team that was very impressive in the pre-holiday action. Tonight the Gators travel to Bremerton to face Olympic, a team that won only two games out of seven before upsetting Peninsula Friday. But that victory over Peninsula could be an indication that Green River will be in for a rough time Friday.

Grays Harbor has played only three games so far this year. They lost to the University of Portland freshmen, 68-58, prior to Christmas; then opened league play last Friday with a 98-62 loss to Highline. Saturday night the Chokers came back to edge Peninsula, 81-76.

Potential starters for Grays Harbor include Mike Armstrong, a 6-5 letterman forward who scored 22 points Saturday and 17 points Friday; 6-1 Gary Carr from Lincoln of Tacoma, younger brother to former Tacoma star Luther Carr, who will be at the other forward post; center will be 6-9 Randy Cottrell; and guards will be 5-10 John Wilson, the Chokers starting quarterback in football; and Greg McGuire, a 5-11 transfer student from the University of Montana where he started on the frosh team last year.

The Green River-Grays Harbor contest will begin at 8 p.m. in the Green River gym Saturday.

Last week, league play got under way rather dramatically for the Gators. Green River started without the services of first-line reserve Greg Brovold who has been benched with academic difficulties. Marion Bozman sat out more of the game than he usually does because he was in foul trouble early in the contest and fouled out shortly after the first overtime started. Before the game was over, Moses Taylor and Roger Sloan both fouled out and Tim Cummings was in trouble with four fouls on him before the overtimes even started.

The Gators had a 74-70 lead in the see-saw game with 15 seconds left, but master strategy, one key Gator turnover, and sharp-shooting in the clutch by Clark tied the ballgame at 74-74 at the end of the first overtime. In the second extra period, Mike Willis came off the bench to score three field goals and give the Gators an 86-82 lead early in the overtime, but again the Penguins fought back gamely to tie it 86-86, forcing the third overtime. In the final extra five-minutes, the foul shooting of Tim Cummings made the difference as the Gators salvaged a 98-92 victory.

Friday, an upset-minded Edmonds club that lost some of its pre-league games quite decisively, seldom trailed in the battle against the league-leading Gators. But, paced by the scoring of Marion Bozman who led all scorers with 25 points, Green River rallied for an 84-80 victory, their first win away from home this season.

Pep Dance Slated

GRCC students will dance to the music of the Springfield Rifle on January 20.

The "pep dance" will take place after the Tacoma Green River basketball game. Admission to the dance is free with a dance card, and a dollar without. The dance will be over at 1 a.m.

Intramurals To Start Next Week

Intramural sports will be offered for the first time by Green River starting winter quarter, announced Mr. Doug Carr, coordinator of the extra-curricular activity. This quarter basketball and volleyball will be offered in the program, to be held during noon hours throughout the week.

Carr stated that since there was mounting interest in out-of-class activities, the P.E. department decided to organize intramural sports for all interested people to bridge the gap between P.E. and varsity sports, and offer exercise for persons not turning out for varsity teams.

To date, nearly 60 students and teachers have signed up for intramural basketball and volleyball, and more are expected before practice begins. Games are scheduled to begin some time next week. The contests will be officiated by Mr. Carr's sports officiating class.

Pauline Conwell Gets Fourth In Canada Meet

Pretty Green River College shot putter Pauline Conwell took fourth place last Saturday in the Canadian Indoor National Championships at Kinsmen Fieldhouse in Edmonton.

The 19-year-old freshman from Federal Way put the 4-kilo shot 41 feet, 9 inches — the best of her career. Her previous best was 41-3. "I'm quite satisfied with the performance," she admitted, "because it's the first meet of the season. If I can get above 43 feet later this year, it will help my chances of qualifying for the U.S. women's Olympic team."

Pauline is a member of the Angels track team, a group of Valley girls coached by Ron Sorkness.

Pauline's fourth place finish in Canada was against four members of the Canada Pan American team. She beat one member of the team. The winner of the event topped 48 feet and the other two ahead of Pauline were over 43 feet.

The Angels will compete in the United States Indoor championship in Oakland in February and will go to the outdoor nationals in Colorado in August. If Pauline qualifies in Denver she'll get to go to the Olympic time-trials in Los Angeles the following week and, if she can make the Olympic team, will go to Mexico City for the 1968 event.

GRCC to Host State Meet

Green River College will host the state community college basketball tournament March 7-8-9, the Executive Board of the State Community College Athletic Commission announced January 2.

Art Feiro, secretary of the Commission, said that switching of the site from Cascade High School in Everett where it has been held in previous seasons to Green River, was part of a plan to utilize college facilities for state tournaments whenever possible.

A survey of gyms and other necessary accommodations led to the Commission's choice of Green River. The new gym at GRCC will seat more than 2,200 fans and the college's central location in the western part of the state was considered ideal for the state tournament, according to the commission.

Matched in the tournament this year will be the four top teams from the Eastern and Western Divisions of the State Community College Athletic Association.

Wrestlers' Win Streak Comes to Halt

The Green River grapplers lost their first meet of the season to Everett Community College on Tuesday due to forfeits in four weight divisions.

Gator wrestlers Walt Pedferri, Bob Blessing, Ralph Goss, Dan Vogler, and Ben Bergsma were the Gator winners in the meet. Pedferri decisioned Everett's Mike Simpson 12-4, and Bolger and Blessing won on forfeits. Bergsma won by a 2-0 decision. Goss had the only Gator pin for the meet, pinning John Benneh.

The wrestlers won their third straight meet of the season Friday at Skagit Valley, and Saturday brought home more medals in their second invitational meet of the season.

Friday at Skagit Valley, paced by wins by Walt Pedferri, Don Brown, Ralph Goss, Rex Febus, Dan Vogler, and Ben Bergsma — they defeated Skagit Valley, 26-16.

Pedferri pinned Requa in the second round to win the 123-pound match. Then Dennis O'Leary lost a narrow 4-3 decision to Nakashima as Skagit scored its first win in the dual meet. Green River forfeited the 137-pound and 152-pound classes because Coach Doug Carr could not enter wrestlers in those divisions (academic troubles eliminated three Gators from the team at the end of the quarter). In the 145-pound division, Pederson of Skagit stopped Bob Blessing, 5-1.

Then Green River started a win streak. Don Brown won the 160-pound class by default when he was injured in an illegal hold by Dahl. Ralph won at 167 by decisioning Hodgins, 3-2. Rex Febus pinned Nichols in the third round to win the 177-pound division; 191-pound Dan Vogler pinned Lowry in the third round; and Ben Bergsma outpointed Tennis, 4-2, in the heavyweight division, for the fifth straight Green River win.

Competing against the University of Washington freshmen, Grays Harbor, Everett, Highline, Olympic, and Lower Columbia at the Grays Harbor Invitational meet Saturday, three Gators went to the finals and another took fourth place. No team awards were given.

Walt Pedferri, Don Brown, and Ralph Goss all reached the finals in their respective weight classes,

Pedferri Wins In UW Invitational

Walt Pedferri, scrappy 123-pound sophomore at Green River College, led Gator wrestlers to a seventh place finish in the Jaycee-Frosh division of the University of Washington Wrestling Invitational wrestling tournament last month in Seattle.

The Gators came away with 24 points, trailing Grays Harbor who had 57, Highline 46, Oregon State frosh 39, Washington frosh 37, Oregon frosh 34, and Columbia Basin 26. Behind Green River were Olympic 20, Clark 18, Washington State frosh 18, Everett 17, Centralia 15, Shoreline 5, and Skagit Valley 2.

Pedferri was the only champion for the Gators. He won his first match 10-2, pinned his second round opponent, won his semi-final match, 6-0, and won the championship by whipping Don Stark of Grays Harbor, 4-0. It was sweet victory for Pedferri who went all the way to the finals last year, only to lose in the last match and finish second.

Dennis O'Leary, the Gators' 115-pounder, was out cold when he won third place in his division. He pinned his first opponent in the first round, then lost the second match 4-2; came back to win the third round match on a referee's decision in overtime; and went into the match for third place in the tournament. In that contest, he was trailing 4-2 when his opponent slammed him to the canvas on what was ruled an illegal hold and O'Leary, out cold, was declared the winner. He didn't wake up until 45 minutes later in the dressing room.

Roger Woolley, Rex Febus, and Ben Bergsma all won first round matches for the Gators but failed to get any farther in the tournament. Ralph Goss won his first two matches, but lost his final two. Gators eliminated in the first round were Jon Pedferri, Jim McLaughlan, Don Brown, Dave Bartlett, and Mike Glynn.

but all lost the title bouts. Grays Harbor's T. Kanno came from behind to win in overtime, 5-4, to take the 123-pound championship against Pedferri. Brown lost a 10-2 decision of Grays Harbor's Davis in the 160-pound class; and Seifert of Highline edged Goss, 5-4, for the 167-pound title.

In the 177-pound division, Rex Febus took fourth, losing twice to the same man, Lewis of the University of Washington.

Dennis O'Leary, Dan Vogler, and Ben Bergsma all turned in creditable performances, needing just one more win apiece to be in the finals for third and fourth place in their weight classes.
