Retreat Encourages New Student Involvement

Sixty Green River students, both new and returning, attended the fourth annual Fall Leadership Retreat September 10, 11 and 12, along with several administrators and counselors. Twenty sophomores arrived at Camp Seymour, the Retreat site, a day before the freshmen. The sophomores were then oriented to being "welcomers" to the new students.

Mike McIntyre, coordinator of the Retreat, expressed the goals of the event. He said that primary on the list was to "get people involved with student government and student activities programs," and the Retreat was to provide them with the necessary information and motivation for this. He added that another major goal was to "help them grow as individuals."

The goals were to be achieved through two methods. When students arrived at Camp Seymour, they were divided into five groups. The first objective was accomplished through informational guidance of three of the groups. Richard Barclay, Dean of Students, and Steve Marcille, A.S.B. President, provided the students with general information and then led discussions.

At the same time, the other groups were attempting the second goal, functioning as "unstructured experience groups." McIntyre indicated that there was no real "encounter group" experience taking place, since the time was too limited to achieve the "depth" of an encountering situation. The lack of time was due to the fact that the groups had to reverse roles as "experiential" and "informational" several times throughout the weekend. This was due to a lack of facilitators in both areas. This lack prevented the weekend from being devoted entirely to one or the other of the goals.

Green River counselors, however, did act as facilitators for the experience groups since, according to McIntyre, they were the "most highly trained facilitators on campus," whether it be for true encounter or merely conversational groups. McIntyre added that the mild experiential groups would aid in developing a "comfortable atmosphere" for the freshmen.

The students chosen for the Retreat were selected on a different basis this year than in previous retreats. Formerly, those freshmen who had shown potential leadership in their school records were invited. This year, however, a variety of potentialities were included, from the very active to the mildly active. A number of students uninvolved in high school activities, but who expressed interest in some of the college's programs (according to a new "Student Activities Information Card") were included as well. The sophomores attending were either active in the past year, or newly involved in student programs.

Students To Receive Free Gifts

Free Gift-Pax Samples will be available to registering freshmen again this fall. The Gift-Pax, which include a number of items from a variety of national manufacturers, have proven immensely popular with students over the past few years.

There are a variety of assortments, including coed and male oriented products, as well as freshmen and upperclass kits. Over 2,000 other colleges and universities throughout the United States have been distributing the Gift-Pax throughout the past 16 years.

Freshmen will receive their free gifts during registration. The assortments are available to sophomores, as well. For information, interested sophomores should contact the Student Activities Office.

College Council To Begin New Year Of Meetings

Green River Community College's All-College Council will soon begin its regular sessions which are held every other Monday afternoon. The Council was first implemented last spring as the campus governing body, second only to the Board of Trustees in authority.

The Council is sometimes called the "policy-making" body because it handles matters which concern the entire campus, making recommendations to the Board of Trustees.

The Council is composed of nine faculty members, nine students, and six administrators. It was previously composed of faculty and administration, with only three students sitting in on the meetings. The students come from the three primary divisions of the campus: vocational-technical, academic, and continuing education.

As it stands now, the members of the council are:

Vocational Technical . . . Steve Marcille,
Lanny Johnson, Eric Dukes
Continuing Education . . . . . Mike Conlan,
Ken Wilson
Academic . . . . . Tim Cosgrove

As is apparent, there are three positions to be filled, two from Academic and one from Continuing Education.

"I think the council has an identity problem right now," said member Dick Barclay, Acting Dean of Students. He described it as being in terms of items that the council should concern itself with.

He says that the Council is a policy making body in terms of the entire college (hence the name All-College Council). Any problems which it does face in this important year, he adds, will be problems of the members, and not just any one facet of the college such as students, faculty, or administration.

The Council has presented several items to the Board for approval, including the newly implemented Bookstore Board of Directors.

Barclay, among others, felt that the Council has become more than just a voice for the students. He feels that it is a body through which they can exercise their rights and authorities. Making students aware of those rights and authorities is going to be of high priority on Barclay's list this year.

Trustee

Board OKs Increase In Tuition Fees

Tuition this year has gone up to $83 per quarter for regular students, $13 higher than in previous years. The increase in tuition was approved by the Green River Board of Trustees, as required by the Washington State Legislature.

Tuition and fees for other student categories have risen as well. Non-residents must now pay $227 per quarter, over a previous $170 expense. Residents with Vietnam veterans exemption only pay $70, while non-residents with the exemption pay $170. This is the first year that Vietnam veterans have been granted an exemption.

The quarterly costs include a general tuition fee, an operating fee, and a services and activities fee.

'PARENT & CHILD' AUTHOR TO SPEAK

Forums Committee, a subgroup of Program Board, has scheduled a number of speakers for fall, including several local personalities, as well as nationally renowned figures. Dr. Haim Ginott, Don McCune, and Merle E. Dowd head the list of

Yarbrough Sings Here

Renowned folk singer Glenn Yarbrough will be appearing on the Green River campus Sunday, October 3. He will be performing in the gymnasium at 7:30 p.m.

Yarbrough's musical talents have been celebrated throughout the musical world since 1956, when he was given his first professional engagement. By 1959, Yarbrough was operating his own club, "The Limelite." It was at that time that he met Alex Hassilev and Lou Gottlieb, and formed a group known as the Limelites. They soon became one of the most popular folk singing groups in the nation.

Yarbrough soon left the group, though, to sail his boat around the world. He agreed to make "one last album" — as a single performer — with RCA. Because of the success of that album, he then spent an additional five years in association with that record company.

Yarbrough is now performing with the Warner Brothers — 7 Arts recording studio. He and the Limelites also reorganized for one recording performance for that company.

Recently Yarbrough came out in favor of a new plan for booking artists in colleges. He has formed an organization which is dedicated to the protection of the performers and the colleges in which they perform.

Yarbrough has developed for his organization an entire price schedule, based on two assumptions. First, he says, schools are not in the business of losing or making money from college concerts. Secondly, artists must earn their money through admissions at the time of their performance and not in large guarantees which may or may not represent the performers' true value.

Yarbrough has applied his organization's prices to his Green River performance. Tickets are available from the Student Center information desk, located in the Lindbloom Student Services Building. Prices are $3 for adults, and $2 for students.

lecturers who will be appearing on the Green River campus throughout fall quarter.

Dr. Haim Ginott is an internationally known psychotherapist, especially famous for his work in the field of child psychology. Ginott is the author of three books, the best known of which are "Between Parent and Child" and "Between Parent and Teenager." He is a professor of psychology at New York and Adelphi Universities, and also served as a U.N.E.S.C.O. consultant to the government of Israel several years ago. Dr. Ginott is the only one of the speakers for whom admission will be charged. Tickets are available from the Student Activities Information Desk for $1.50 — general admission and $1.00 — students with I.D. He is also the only speaker who will be appearing in the evening.

Merle E. Dowd, the former financial analyst for the Ford Motor Company, will be speaking on "How to Save Money When You Buy and Drive A Car." The well-known financier is the author of four books on the subject of saving money.

The last of the nationally known speakers is Don McCune. Host and writer of "Exploration Northwest," a syndicated program, he was formerly known as "Captain Puget," of the award-winning children's show of the same name. McCune has been in show business since 1954 as a professional singer and guitarist.

In addition to these speakers, a handwriting analyst will be discussing the subject November 2. Jerri Rowlands, executive assistant to Seattle Schools Superintendent Forbes Bottomley, has done extensive research into the subject, and is now a respected authority.

The last speaker, Rober Lillenthal, has spent about one fourth of his life in penal institutions. Now paroled, 28 years old, he says the crimes he was arrested for were committed to support a former hard drug habit.

All the speakers will be appearing in the campus' Performing Arts building (PA-8). Their schedule, which spans the fall quarter, is:

Robert Lillenthal	Wednesday, Sept. 29	noon
Dr. Haim Ginott	Thursday, Oct. 7	8:00 p.m.
Don McCune	Tuesday, Oct. 19	noon
Jerri Rowlands	Tuesday, Nov. 2	noon
Merle E. Dowd	Tuesday, Nov. 16	noon

Student Center In Service

August 23 began the move into the new Lindbloom Student Service Center.

First to enter was registration and admissions. The two groups moved files, records, books, and other items, while the construction on the facility continued. Following them in rapid succession were financial aids, counseling, the cashier's office, student programs (formerly activities), and the bookstore. The cafeteria is now in the process of completion.

"I think," said Mike McIntyre, Director for Student Programs, speaking about the new building, "it's going to create a greater sense of community feeling on the campus. It's the best facility in the state by far for community colleges."

McIntyre indicated that planning for the building had begun three years ago, while the actual construction was started only one year ago. Although it is not yet completed, the things that remain to be done are relatively minor. For instance, workers are now generally planing, varnishing, flooring, and so forth. Along with the construction confusion, there are still some offices which are moving into the facility.

The moves into the building have caused some other changes on the campus, as well. Tentative plans for the use of vacated buildings and facilities have been made. In the Holman Library building, the Audio-Visual department will be moving into the old cafeteria area. Continuing education will be taking over registration's old offices, while the financial aids and counseling area is to be turned over to Bob Lawrence, Director of Academic Education, and Art Binnie, Director of Vocational Education. The business office has expanded in that area, as well, but will remain in the same location.

The lower lounge, formerly occupied by Student Activities and Athletics, will now be used entirely by Athletics and Recreation. Some of their faculty and staff are now located in offices in the gymnasium building.

The trailer which was used by the bookstore will be turned into the Communications Center. It will contain the offices and working facilities of the Current and the campus radio station. The Current formerly had offices in HS-12, a classroom which it shared with a number of art classes, while the radio station was housed in a small room in the PA building. The expansions will be major, in both cases.

The new building is now near completion. Named after the College's president, Dr. Melvin Lindbloom, the Lindbloom Student Services Center will be ready for student use by the opening of school September 20.

When the move into the new building was made, most of the telephone extensions were kept the same for the same departments. For instance, Financial Aids and Placement is still 317, and Student Programs is still 337 and 338.

Gurk Alive & Well

Incoming freshmen are probably well-acquainted with the symbol of Green River: an alligator. Yet probably very few of them are aware that the college has a live mascot — a 23-inch alligator who lives at Dash Point.

Gurk, a cayman alligator, was taken in by Roy Marriott, a GRCC student, in fall 1970. His previous owner had measured him in February 1970 at 26 inches. When Roy measured him at only 23 inches, he found that he was not growing at the normal 1-foot per year rate.

Gurk now lives in a 3-foot square cage with a pebble "beach" and an aluminum sleeping tunnel. Roy has installed lights that keep the pet's home at an even 80 degrees, since he becomes nervous when the temperature drops below 70 degrees.

Students who wish to see Gurk can observe him at the GRCC home athletic events, which he attends in a special "traveling cage."

GRCC Campus Draftees To Meet

There will be a meeting of all draft-age male students September 27 at noon in PA-8. The purpose of the meeting, says Acting Registrar Booker Watt, who is in charge of selective service and veterans affairs, is to let these students know just what is going to be happening to them.

Since the Selective Service Law expired June 30, and Congress has not yet voted any new laws into effect, there is doubt as to what the laws will be. Watt says he doesn't know what is going to happen, but he is confident that Congress will have done something by September 27.

"We will tell students what they will have to do for deferments," he said, "if they are still available." He feels that Congress will probably pass some law similar to the one that just expired in June.

Watt said as the last law stood, a student could be deferred up to four years — until he completed his education. He said that the deferment then read that the student would go into the service at that time. Watt said that one problem is that students go to their Boards and register, and are not really informed of the facts at that time.

Watt is now serving as an official registrar for Draft Board Number 7. He says he can officially register any student who is attending Green River and turns 18 during their attendance here. This saves the student the trouble of going to his draft board, perhaps missing school, and so forth, he said.

Watt says that they will have some old forms at the meeting that students can fill out for deferments, in case the new law provides for them.

Cinema Has Fall Films

"I'm looking forward to this fall in terms of the activities Program Board has scheduled," said Norris L. Johnson, Jr., Program Board Chairman. Norris' optimistic outlook reflects in part the outstanding quality of the events the organization has planned.

Cinema Committee has four films reserved, including "Cat Ballou," "Wait Until Dark," "Castle Keep," and "The Professionals."

"Cat Ballou" is described as "an outrageously funny picture" and "a hilarious spoof." Lee Marvin, riding his inebriated horse, won an Academy Award as best actor of the year for his performance as the drunkest gun-fighter in the West. Jane Fonda appears as the school-teacher who goes "outlaw" when her father is shot down by Marvin's twin brother. Michael Callan adds to the laughter as he jokes his way through robberies, hangings, and the film, in general.

Audrey Hepburn gives an outstanding performance in the next film, "Wait Until Dark." The character she portrays has been blinded in a recent accident. She is now alone in her apartment (her husband out of town) and threatened by three desperate men. The three are looking for a doll filled with a fortune in heroin — which they believe is hidden, unknown to Miss Hepburn, in her apartment.

A war novel become the subject of the third movie. Entitled "Castle Keep," it stars Burt Lancaster. The action is set in the Ardennes Forest. It is the eve of the Battle of the Bulge, as Hitler's armies prepare their massive counter-offensive. Since its release, director Sydney Pollack has been praised for his success in bringing to the screen the "excitement and counterpoint of a great adventure."

"The Professionals," a more recent box-office attraction, rounds out the Cinema schedule for the quarter. Again, Burt Lancaster and Lee Marvin star. Jack Palance adds to the adventure in his role as "the bloodiest cut-throat in Mexico." All the excitement of gunfights, dynamiting, taught Mexican-American relations, and "cut-throat" Palance come between Marvin and this three men as they try to rescue a railroad tycoon's wife from the outlaw, and at the same time earn $100,000.

According to a schedule developed last year, when Johnson was the Chairman of the Cinema Committee, each film is shown twice. All showings will be in the Performing Arts building, PA-8. The dates for the showings will be:

- Cat Ballou, Sept. 30, noon to 2:00 p.m.; Oct. 1, 7:00 to 9:00 p.m.
- Wait Until Dark, Oct. 14, noon to 2:00 p.m.; Oct. 15, 7:00 to 9:00 p.m.
- Castle Keep, Oct. 22, noon to 2:00 p.m.; Oct. 29, 7:00 to 9:00 p.m.
- The Professionals, Nov. 11, noon to 2:00 p.m.; Nov. 12, 7:00 to 9:00 p.m.

Special Issue

The first issue of the Green River Current will be published and distributed during the second week of school, and every Thursday thereafter. Exceptions are weeks that are interrupted by holidays or test weeks.

This newspaper, though headed the Current, is really a pre-school supplement edited and written primarily for the faculty and administration as a guide and, in a way, a handbook for students during registration week.

Advisors Conveniently Located Right Here

One of the major problems confronting freshmen during registration is that of finding their advisors. With some 104 faculty members and administrators handling both pre-advising and advising, room assignments can become confusing to the new students, if not to the advisors themselves. For the convenience of the freshmen during orientation, the Current publishes the pre-advising and advising room assignments. Note that all advisors are listed twice, once alphabetically, and once opposite their team partner.

Instructor Hiring Limited

Due to budget limitations, as revealed earlier this year, only two new instructors have been hired, and they are to replace two who are leaving.

Ron Tienhaara will be taking Linda Schuerman's place in chemistry while she is on professional leave. Tienhaara has just completed his Masters degree at Central Washington State College.

Donald Smith, a lifetime resident of Enumclaw, will be a full-time auto body instructor, replacing Larry Thornton. Thornton resigned from Green River to teach at Linn-Benton, a new community college in Oregon. Sophomores may recall that the former Green River Dean of Instruction Ray Needham is now the president of that college.

Smith has his own auto body shop in Enumclaw, and has previously taught with Green River part-time.

Several other instructors are missing from the roster this year. Ed Eaton, journalism advisor and instructor, is on sabbatical leave for the academic year. Cliff Rowe, who works on the Seattle Times will be taking over as advisor of the newspaper, while another newsman has been hired to teach Eaton's classes. Eaton is doing his doctoral work at Southern Illinois University.

Wayne Luckmann, English instructor, has gone to Mexico for his sabbatical. He is doing some writing and taking classes there. Dr. Emyln Jones, History of Civilization Instructor, will be on a study trip to Africa during his winter quarter sabbatical.

Several other items of note occurred in the Instruction Department. Liz Maddox, formerly with Family Life department, became the wife of Bud Gadwa, head of the automotive. Mrs. Gadwa will now be the acting director of the Kent operation in Continuing Education, while Gadwa himself will be on sabbatical leave for two quarters. He will be continuing his research in automotive positions.

Bill Mitchell also resigned in order to take a position with the Clover Park Vocational-Technical Institute. He will continue to teach waste water control.

Cal Dupree, minority affairs coordinator, has taken a job with the Community College Board. He will be doing much the same job as he handled at Green River, but it will be on a statewide basis. Dupree's Green River replacement has not yet been chosen.

Howard Fryett, Business Division, who was on Sabbatical and professional leave recently, has now returned with a Ph.D. from North Dakota University.

Guy Blanton, technology instructor, is directing a special research project on waste water control. He will be on professional leave at Oregon State University this year. Jerry Johnson, who was acting director of Continuing Education last year is now on sabbatical leave, also at OSU.

Governance Positions Available

Green River recently held one of the largest student body elections in its history. In the spring, over 600 students, which may not seem like a large number to freshmen, turned out to vote. Yet sophomores are aware that last year's fall election was not even one-third that good in terms of turnout.

Another election will be held on the campus October 5 and 6. Positions to be filled are those of freshman class president, freshman class vice president, three freshmen senatorial seats, and two senator-at-large positions.

Petitions will be available in the Student Programs Office, located on the second floor of the Lindbloom Student Services Building. Availability of petitions will be announced in the Current, as well as posted on the campus bulletin boards.

At present, Green River student body officers are:

ASB President
 ASB Vice President
 ASB Secretary
 Administrative Assistant
 WACCSG Representative
 Director of Publicity
 Program Board Chairman
 Chairman of Clubs and Organizations
 Chairman of Forums
 Chairman of Cinema
 Chairman of Dance
 Chairman of Special Events
 Sophomore Class President
 Sophomore Class Vice President
 Senators

Steve Marcille
 Mike Conlan
 Debe Tyler
 Tim Cosgrove
 Greg Fern
 Viola Farrell
 Terry Ingram
 John Ward
 Paul Russell
 Steve O'Neil
 Terry Larson
 John Ancock
 Mary Strang
 Peggy Peda, Don Henak, Don Siskar,
 Pete DeBruyne, Steve McDaniel,
 Jeong Sook Lee

Positions which are open include a number of appointed jobs on committees, and that of ASB Comptroller. Committees included are: Calendar Committee, Assessment Committee, Board of Control, and Financial Aids Committee. There are others available, as well. The ASB comptroller is in charge of keeping the ASB president's financial records.

Any students who are interested in the appointed positions may contact any member of student government in the Student Programs Office, located on the second floor of the Lindbloom Student Services Building. They may also leave a message with one of the secretaries there, or get in touch with Mike McIntyre, Director for Student Programs.

There are also two student positions available on the Bookstore Board of Directors. This Board was instituted last year so that the profits of the Bookstore would be directed under a more careful scrutiny, and so that students could have a voice in where some of that money went. The idea was originally presented to the Senate by Tracy M. Shier, who is now attending The University of Washington.

Campus Parking... A Real Hassle In Fall

Due to the large number of students attending college, parking will again be a problem this year. Students are recommended to form carpools, particularly before school begins — if at all possible.

Although conditions have improved, since the parking lots throughout the campus have been completely finished, it will still be cramped. It is now possible, however, to drive completely around the campus through the lots and connecting roads.

Everyone who parks in the Green River lots must now have a parking permit, whether it is for a day, a quarter, or a year. Permits are available on the following price schedule:

- $5 per quarter Day School
- $2 per quarter Evening School
- $12 per year Day School
- $5 per year Evening School
- 25c per day

A parking permit will not be valid if not affixed to the front bumper of the car on the driver's side. Older permits are to be removed before new ones are attached.

The person to whom a permit is issued is responsible for all tickets and violations of the campus parking regulations involving the vehicle for which the permit was issued. Tickets are issued on the following fine schedule:

	Parking	Moving
First violation	none	$5
Second violation	$1	$10
Third violation	$3	$15
Subsequent violations	$5	$20

A pamphlet describing all rules, regulations, and procedures is available at registration time, or from the registration lobby.

A new procedure will be in operation this year. The judicial board will be handling all appeals regarding tickets. Whereas last year, parking supervisor Jesse Wells took care of that phase, the new idea was developed because he has not been replaced. Dick Barclay explained that they have hired people to handle his jobs, but they have not really hired anyone to handle his total job.

Along the new procedural lines, students may then appeal to the Board of Control if they are not satisfied with the judicial board's action.

Building Planned

The new GRCC science-technology building was one of the few capital projects approved by the Legislature this year.

Science, technology and health occupations faculty are now meeting weekly with the school architect, Bud Aehle and Associates, to plan the new science and technology facility. It is anticipated that the building will be 47,680 square feet, approximately the same size as the student services building. The two-story structure will be located south of the physical education field.

Hope To Come

The New Hope, a 13-member singing group, will be appearing on the Green River campus again this year. The event will take place Monday, November 15, at noon.

The group will be performing in the campus Performing Arts building, PA-8. During their appearance last year, the audience filled the room to capacity, with people lined up all the way into the foyer, as well.

The New Hope present a show which features the latest top-chart tunes and recent standard hits, along with comedy and show stoppers. Their program includes special light and sound systems, costume changes, superb choreography, and accompaniment by piano, drums, electric lead and bass guitars.

Each performer is a veteran of radio-television, overseas concert tours, or some other professional entertainment media. Most are attending college, taking time off for their careers.

Clubs Organize Active Year

Green River coordinates a number of activities and programs for students to become involved in. Some are for class credits, others are extracurricular.

There is a large variety of things available to students. Classes which give activity credits include the Sonnetiers, Experimental Learning Grant Projects, Jazz Ensembles, Newslab (newspaper workshop), and Model United Nations.

Other activities include Program Board, which sponsors such events as the annual Raft Race, the annual Road Rally, and the annual Open Air Fair. Program Board also has a clubs and organizations branch, which coordinates the clubs on campus. Students may join any number of clubs, from the Occupational Therapy Club and Transportation Club, to the Herklimer Quackenbushers. There are both occupational-career type clubs and recreational type clubs.

Admissions Close Early

Green River closed its doors for applications this year the earliest it ever has. General admission of new regular students for fall quarter 1971 closed July 9.

The reason for the action, indicated Acting Admissions-Advising Coordinator Don Isaacson, at that time, was the great number of students already accepted for fall quarter. There were well over 3,400. There were still, however, openings in some technical programs and evening classes, which would put the enrollment figure even higher.

Isaacson indicated that late applicants, those applying after the cut-off date, would be given registration appointments following the registration of all regular students. They would then be able to register in whatever programs were still open, although classes would probably be available on a very limited basis.
