Carl Rowan To Speak Here Feb. 11

Nationally syndicated newspaper columnist Carl Rowan will head a list of guests at the two-day Heath Lectures at Green River Community College scheduled Feb. 11-12.

Rowan will address the Tuesday night meeting, Feb. 11, on the subject of "Violence, Justice, and the Law."

Following Rowan's address, scheduled for 7 p.m. in the college gymnasium, a panel of local authorities will respond. The guests will include a student, a police chief, a businessman, a legislator, a judge, and a minister. Names of the respondents, now being contacted by the college committee, will be announced next week.

After the panel discusses the issues presented by Rowan, representatives of the news media will then question Rowan and the panel. The audience will have an opportunity to ask questions, following the question and answer session by the press.

At noon on Wednesday, Feb. 12, another panel will discuss the issues raised during the opening session of the program. That group of participants will include a state executive, a police chief, a mayor, an attorney, a student, a student from another campus, and a representative of a civil rights organization.

High school and college newspaper editors and members of the local media will question that panel.

The program, sponsored by Green River, Heath Tecna, and the Washington State Bar Association, is considered one of the highlights of the agenda of programs the college presents to the community.

Mothers Accept Challenge of Education

By Mrs. Matilda Black

A casual glance around campus makes one realize Mother is in class also. What prompts seemingly safe secure women to seek the challenge of a college education? Why are successful useful mothers venturing into unknown areas of knowledge?

Challenge and usefulness seem to be key factors of this Mother's March. Today's mother expects to live 25 to 35 years beyond child bearing and rearing career. The woman that is seeking a higher education is meeting the quest to remain a successful useful person into her middle and older years.

These women are and have fulfilled their primary function in life and now are preparing to serve their families and communities with expanded knowledge and abilities.

Three women indicated they had the desire but were financially unable to attend college while in their late teens. They have at various times of their lives worked in the commercial world, but none were really satisfied with her experiences. Now with one phase of life being completed the mothers are preparing for another.

Mrs. Carolyn Edwards, mother of three, Bill, 25, Melody, 16, and Laurel, 9, is in general studies. She wants to specialize in languages and maybe teach. She hopes to be able to assist her girls attend college while working at something she can enjoy more than being a clerk typist.

Mrs. Phyllis Krage, mother of two, Vicki, 18 and Tom, 15, is majoring in history and education. She also wants the satisfaction of helping others learn rather than punch a cash register.

Mrs. Audrey Liermann, mother of three, Ralph, 18, Randy, 14, and Ray, 12, is working toward a degree in sociology. She likes the stimulation of working with people and helping others solve some of life's problems. For her people are more exciting than a column of figures. Her eldest son is talking of higher education. His mother's ability at college has inspired him. She feels all people have goals they seek to achieve. She has a husband, a home and children. While she has attained some of her goals, she can see others being satisfied in the near future so she is reaching for another star.

Hunt Turns Editor; 'Dirty Rag' is Out

Student Body President Dan Hunt has become an editor. The 25 year-old student leader is editing an unofficial "student organ" called "The Dirty Rag."

The paper is issued "every now and then for the editors' personal gratification," says the nameplate to the dittoed sheet. Three issues have been published to date — two just before Christmas and one on Monday, Jan. 6. The first two issues were especially critical of the Current, but No. 3 has turned to such things as the "no F" policy, the professional army, and even has a guest editorial by Ed Eaton, adviser to the Current. But the lead item is Hunt's personal essay on Sex called "Sex Education, Part Two." Part One ran in the previous issue and criticized girls for leading guys on and then "shutting them down." The conclusion to the second episode of sex education was "the boys at Green River are clods."

Wednesday the Student Senate was scheduled to meet to decide whether Hunt could continue to put out the paper with school supplies. Hunt promised that if the Senate fails to back him, he and other students will continue to publish the unofficial student voice on their own.

Campus Men To Organize Service Club

Green River College men interested in starting a campus service organization have been extended an open invitation to attend an organization meeting for Circle K in ST-21 at noon Tuesday, Jan. 14.

Robert Christianson, who will be the adviser to the group, said that membership is open to any men on campus.

The Circle K is a college affiliate of the Kiwanis International. Its primary function is to serve the college in a variety of ways — sponsoring social functions, guiding campus guests on special tours of the campus, ushering at college functions, and supporting any campus betterment programs.

Sign Up For 'Miller Plan'

People interested in registering for the "Miller Plan" for Spring Quarter should sign the form on the counter in the Registrar's Office.

"The Miller Plan" is a special program suggested by Dr. Gerald Miller for Spring Quarter where a student will sign up only for special classes for 3½ weeks, then take another class for 3½ weeks, and a third class for 3½ weeks, receiving five credits for each class.

1969 Homecoming to Give Women the Right to Vote

By Dan Hunt

The entire Student Body will be allowed to vote for Green River College's Homecoming Queen in a direct election this year, according to Paul Lange, special events chairman for the Associated Student Body.

This is a departure from last year when only men students were allowed to nominate girls and the basketball and wrestling teams actually chose the queen. Any campus club will be allowed to nominate one girl and any 10 students from the general student body can do the same.

The nominating petitions, signed by a club president or 10 students, must be presented to the ASB offices on Friday, Jan. 31, between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Lange also gave the schedule for the Homecoming week activities. The election will take place on Friday, Feb. 7, and the Queen and her court of princesses will be announced on Monday, Feb. 10. They will be introduced to the crowd at the Homecoming game with Fort Steilacoom on Friday night and the Queen will be crowned at the Homecoming Dance on Saturday night.

The dance will be semi-formal and held at the Winthrop Hotel in Tacoma where the Shultz-Murphy Unlimited will provide the music. Other activities tentatively scheduled are a game between the Harlem Clowns and the faculty, a slave sale of boys, a jam session, a grub day, and a dress-up day.

Lange, chairman of the event, is a 27-year-old sophomore from Tarentum, Penn., who now lives in Kent. He was elected sophomore representative last spring and since has been elevated to sophomore vice-president and senator.

Editorial

'Dirty Rag' Big Issue on Campus

Just before Christmas vacation there came to be an underground newspaper of the Green River campus. The main instigator is one Dan Hunt. The criticism of Dan's is that the Current editor is not doing his job to the fullest; Dan is probably right but how do I know I'm not if someone doesn't tell me.

Dan might be right but he is also wrong as shown in the letters. The use of profanity should have been kept at a minimum. He should have had the Student Senate okay the money for the paper before putting the first issue out.

As it stands now Dan has gone out and done something on his own and without the best wishes of the faculty and some of the students. Maybe more of us should follow this attitude?

But my opinion is that "the Dirty Rag" is sometimes humorous and at other times in poor taste. It might make even a little competition for the staff of the Current. Maybe that's what we need to get back on the ball.

Kennellys
Donate
To Fund

Heath Tecna Corp. stock valued at $2,600 has been donated to the Green River Community College Scholarship and Loan Fund by Mr. and Mrs. William Kennelly of Kent.

The announcement was made this week by Dr. Melvin Lindbloom, president of the college.

Kennelly is one of the senior vice-presidents at Heath and is chairman of the Board of Trustees at Green River. Mr. and Mrs. Kennelly last year donated $2,500 worth of stock to the college Library Book Fund.

Mrs. Winnie Vincent, director of Financial Aids at GRCC, was enthusiastic about the gift to the college. "This contribution will enable several students to attend school who might not be able to enroll otherwise," she said.

The stock can be used any way the college chooses, said Kennelly. Either direct grants to students, or low-interest loans may be made.

The gift to Green River was part of $32,500 in stock value presented by Mr. and Mrs. Kennelly this year to private groups. The other grants included religious contributions and a donation to the Seattle Youth Symphony.

Reagan Criticizes
Hunt's 'Dirty Rag'

I have just read vol. 1, no. 2, of "Dirty Rag." I am moved to make the following comments:

1 - The title seems to appropriately describe the quality of the contents although it would appear to highly overrate both the ability of the writers to intelligently express — even at the rag level — so much as one important thought (assuming such was their intent) or to serve any constructive purpose with their writing.

2 - As a very general criticism and as a personal opinion, I consider the Rag a remarkable example of what journalism shouldn't be, and I can't help wondering why the writers of such obviously hastily composed garbage, if they really have something to say, don't take the time to put it in a useful, adult-level form and seeks its publication in a college forum such as the Current with responsible authorship.

3 - Not having read vol. 1, no. 1, of "Dirty Rag" I am perplexed in considering the quality of no. 2 as representative of what must have been in no. 1. In view of this, what need was there for no. 2? For that matter, is the "vol. 1" of some significance? Surely additional literature of such pusillanimous portent is totally unnecessary.

4 - The writer of the first article of the Rag points with pride to the profanity he employs, alluding to its "shocking" effect on certain readers. The most shocking thing about such vulgarity in my opinion was not that the writer found it necessary to assail his readers with it at one point but that it was used with such obvious indifference and miniscule effect as to convince the reader that it really was smut and nothing more, and then at a sixth grade level.

5 - Is this childish, unprofessional attempt all they have to offer? Have they critically analyzed their own work, not just what they write but why? The mind boggles considering the great amount of talent, honesty, and professionalism required to grind out a "rag" of that type.

6 - I had at first considered offering the people associated with that journalistic disaster the suggestion that they supply themselves with large, off-color blocks of granite and suitably dull chisels with which to inscribe their "artistic triumph" — the Rag — for all to see for all time and then pack them off on a walk through some nearby, marshy bog. I suspect a better solution to the whole thing would be for the writers to seek help — professional help — and quickly!

January Poses
Problems With Good Reason

Many puzzled students showed up Monday only to find out that they had missed two full days of classes.

The reason for the early starting date is that the college is required to have 180 days of classes. If two days were taken now two less days would be given during spring break.

College Show Aired Saturday

The three community colleges and the two universities in the Tacoma area are going to be featured on radio every Saturday afternoon during 1969.

A program entitled, "Date-line: the Campus" will be aired from 12:35 to 1 p.m. every Saturday on KTNT (1400 AM and 97.3 FM). Featured will be Green River, Tacoma, and Fort Steilacoom Community College, as well as the University of Puget Sound and Pacific Lutheran University.

News directors at the various schools will put the show together each week with Frank Wilson of Fort Steilacoom serving as the coordinator of the program, initially.

The 25-minute program will not be just a college bulletin, but will deal with controversial issues that need to be covered on the campus scene, as well as key announcements about registration, coming events, and sports activities.

Gene Lewis of KTNT was the originator of the program format and developed it in a meeting with the college representatives who will work with him in producing the weekly show.

AASC Lists Summer Jobs

Students looking for summer jobs can now get help from the American Association of College Students.

In response to requests from college students throughout the country, the Association has prepared three booklets listing organizations interested in hiring college students for summer employment.

One booklet lists jobs available in recreation and resort areas. More than 450 dude ranches, restaurants, hotels, and camps are included in the catalog. It also discusses ways to get jobs in national parks.

The second booklet deals with jobs in business and industry. More than 60 companies are listed with information on what the company does, what type of background is required for summer employees, and how many students the company plans to hire.

Information on more than 25,000 jobs with the federal government is included in the third booklet. Each department and agency of the federal government which hires students in the summer is listed along with the academic majors students should have to apply to that agency.

"These booklets should be a tremendous help to students looking for jobs outside their home towns," according to Alan Jenkins, executive secretary of the AASC. "Together they represent more than 50,000 jobs. There should be something there for students with any type of background or interest."

The booklets may be obtained by writing: Summer Jobs, American Association of College Students, 30 N. LaSalle Street, Chicago, Illinois, 60602.

There is a $2 service charge to cover the cost of printing and handling for each booklet. Requests should specify which catalog is desired: recreation, business or government.

Hoop Squad Meets Grays Harbor Friday at Aberdeen; Centralia Plays at Green River Saturday

Green River's Gators go after wins number three and four this weekend in the Western Division of the Community College basketball race.

The Gators travel to Grays Harbor at Aberdeen Friday night and return to the GRCC gym Saturday night to host Centralia. Coach Bob Aubert's men need a pair of wins to keep in the running for the conference lead, after losing a pre-Christmas conference game to Lower Columbia. The Gators, after a 100-73 win last Friday at Fort Steilacoom, are 2-1 in conference play.

In the Auburn College-Prep Classic the Gators stopped Grays Harbor but this Friday the Chokers will have the advantage of their home court and could be tough. They have one of the tallest teams in the league and an excellent playmaker in sophomore guard Gary Carr.

Centralia is not rated as one of the stronger teams in the league, but they weren't rated high last year when the Trailblazers upset Green River just before the end of the season to give the Gators one of their four losses suffered in regular league play.

Gator Grapplers Face Everett Here Saturday

Green River's Gators, with two individual championships to their credit to date, host Everett Saturday at 1:30 p.m. in the GRCC gymnasium.

Roger Woolley, a sophomore grappler from Redmond, added the most recent title to the Green River collection by defeating Steve Whiedden of Highline for the championship in the 167-pound division of the University of Washington Invitational Saturday. Earlier this year, Ben Bergsma, sophomore from Renton, won the unlimited division at the Grays Harbor Invitational.

At the UW meet, four other Green River men placed in the top four in their division. Dan Michels, freshman from Renton, finished third in the 130-pound class, losing only to Arlan Weller of Grays Harbor who took runner up honors in the tournament. Auburn's Rod Luce won the consolation bracket in the 163-pound division, finishing third. His only loss was to Phil Palady of Kent, a Grays Harbor wrestler.

Issaquah sophomore Rex Febus got the other third for the Gators, winning the consolation round of the 177-pound class. His lone loss was to Grays Harbor's Gary Stevenson who took second in the division.

Bill Mendenhall, freshman from Tyee, got a fourth for the Gators, getting runner-up honors in the consolation bracket of the 123-pound division.

The Gators finished fifth in the team standings. Highline was first with 91 points, edging second place Grays Harbor who had 89. Washington's freshmen were third with 42, Everett had 36; Green River 33; Blue Mountain of Oregon 30; Skagit Valley 21; Shoreline 11; and Washington Golds 10.

Everett, who the Gators meet Saturday afternoon, had two champions at the UW. George Johnson defeated Gary Stevenson of Grays Harbor, 5-1, for the 180-pound title and Mat Roundy decisioned Grays Harbor's Ed Harris for the heavy-weight title.

Athletes Listed On Honor Roll

The old rumor that athletes and grades don't mix is an unpopular one among Green River sports enthusiasts. The fall quarter honor roll released last week by Registrar Richard Barclay included nine GRCC athletes.

Heading the list were a couple of cross country men — Gerald Lombardini of Black Diamond and Bill Mendenhall of Tyee of Seattle with 3.62 averages (4.0 is straight A). Lombardini technically may not qualify as an athlete this year since he has used up his junior college eligibility and didn't run this fall. Mendenhall is a freshman who not only runs the cross country, but is a key man on the wrestling team. He won the college's first home meet this year, and was promptly greeted by a pair of cheerleaders who each planted a big kiss on his cheek at the finish. Whether or not that affected his performance in the classroom wasn't mentioned in the registrar's report.

One other cross country man made the list. He was George Casanova, a freshman from Evergreen.

Walt Pedeferra, holder of several wrestling records at the college, is back for a third year, picking up a few classes he needs and is serving as student coach of the matmen. The Issaquah sophomore made a 3.36 average for the fall term.

ler from Renton, made the honor roll with a 3.17 average and listed right next to him on the alphabetical list released by the registrar is a straight-A student by the name of Jan Brown. That's his wife.

The only basketball player to make the scholar's roll is Gary Cressman, a sophomore from South Kitsap.

Two of last year's track men are honor students — Kris Torbenson of Renton with 3.41 and Don Goddard of Sumner with 3.38.

One baseball player, Charles Possenti of Sumner, registered a B average. Possenti is a sophomore pitcher on the team.

Highline, Kent-Meridian Win Auburn College-Prep Classic

Highline College and Kent-Meridian High School are the new champions in the Auburn College-Prep Classic.

Highline dethroned Green River by defeating the Gators, 87-66, in the championship game Dec. 28 and Kent-Meridian held off a late rally by Auburn in the finale of the high school division, 50-48. The defending high school champion, Port Angeles, was not entered in the tournament this year.

Highline last year took third place in the first annual running of the tournament, and set two records; this year they set three. The 1967 records of Highline — most points in one game and most points by two teams — still stand. Highline defeated Lower Columbia, 104-89, for the consolation championship a year ago to set two records — most points by one team in one game and most points by both teams. But Thunderbirds did set a record this year for most points by one team in the tournament. They downed Edmonds in the opening game, 103-76 (just missing tying their record of 104 points set last year) and then added 87 points against Green River for a tournament total of 190, six more than they scored in the tourney last year.

Highline this year scored 45 field goals in the Edmonds game for another record and against Green River went to the foul line 39 times, a record. The Gators in that same game committed 25 fouls, tying a record Highline set in 1967.

Spokane is the only team besides Green River and Highline to set team records in the tournament so far. The Spartans in 1967 made 21 free throws in one game.

All individual records in the college division were set in 1967, except one. Gary Hopkins of Grays Harbor this year hit eight free throws in the Edmonds-Grays Harbor game. Moses Taylors holds three of the other four records. He scored the most points, 38, last year; had the most field goals, 17, in that same game; and finished the tournament with the most points, 61. Those records were not even threatened this year. Marion Bozman holds the other individual record. He went to the free throw line 11 times in one game last year.

Pete Schilz, a freshman forward for the Gators, holds three records but they were set last year when he was a senior at Auburn High. He and teammate Scott Sheehan share the record of the most points in one game with Bernie Fryer of Port Angeles. Each played in a game in which he scored 25 points. This year no high school player topped 20. Schilz hit 11 free throws in one game for a record and went to the foul line 13 times for another record. Rick Noble of Sumner tied that record this year.

Schilz just missed another record last year. He scored 44 points in the tournament, but was edged out by the performance of Bernie Fryer who netted 46.

Here are the scores of this year's tournament: College Division: Highline 103, Edmonds 76; Green River 89, Grays Harbor 71; Edmonds 85, Grays Harbor 60 (third place); and Highline 87, Green River 66 (championship.) High Schools: Kent-Meridian 53, Sumner 27; Auburn 50, Enumclaw 37; Sumner 60, Enumclaw 53 (third place); and Kent-Meridian 50, Auburn 48 (championship.)
